BEACH ALL-STAR WESTERN WORLD SQUAD EAST-WEST ALL-STAR FOOTBALL GAME SLATED FOR FRIDAY

Two Strong Elevens Meeting in Fourth Annual Gridiron Clash

The East meets the West in the fourth annual All-Star high school football game to be played Friday night in Norfolk's Foreman Field. Coach Fred Isaacs of the East squad has installed Ronnie Davis of Woodrow Wilson at the quarterback position. Isaacs expressed surprise at the work of Davis in practice.

Also a star in basketball and baseball, the Duke-bound Davis weighs 165. Last season he scored 65 points for Wilson, several of his touchdowns coming on sensational punt returns.

B. B. Hamaker, another Wilson product, has been assigned the fullback slot in the probable No. 1 backfield. Hamaker, 200, 6-2, sat out most of last season with an injury. As a result he missed out in the all-star voting, but was picked by Coach Isaacs to play in the summer grid attraction.

Tommy Walker, 175, of Norview and Tom Winger, 185, of Granby will handle the halfback slots, Isaacs said.

In the East's offensive line, Isaacs plans to employ Tommy Odom, 175, of Craddock, and Emory Hedgepeth, 190, of Southampton. Ends: Ed Beard, 225, of Oscar Smith and Wayne Rusubul, 185, of Norview at tackle; Frank Ribar, 170, of Granby and John McNease, 215, of York at guard; and Gene (Tiny) Smith, 210, at center.

"This lineup, of course, is subject to change," Isaacs revealed. "I plan to use two-platoons. The boys have worked hard for four days and are sore and tight. But I think overall they are in pretty good physical shape."

At Little Creek, Coach Ned McDonald had his Westerners decked out in new game uniforms. He said he was pleased with the progress of the squad and looks to a bang-up battle Friday night.

McDonald, whose Westerners ramblined to a 20-7 upset over the East last year, to even the series was sure of his starting backfield but indicated he may go with this quartet:

Lewis Everett, 155, of George Washington, Danville, at quarterback; Billy Tuttle, 198, of E. C. Glass, Lynchburg, and Dick Asbury, 169, of Graham of Bluefield at halfbacks; and Joe Hicks, 196, of James Monroe, Fredericksburg, at fullback.

"It would say this is a fine backfield," McDonald praised.

Two West backs, fullback Joe Griggs of Richmond's Freeman and Jay Blackwood of Jefferson City, Mo., will split the fullback slot. Winger is hobnobbing around with a case of football blisters and guard Fred Childers of Great Bridge injured his thigh in the East camp. All four players, however, are expected to play in the game.

American Little Leaguers End Season with Food

Local Students Attend Workshop

Thomas Cayce and Colonel William Mack, president and sponsor respectively, of the Student Cooperative Association of the Virginia Beach High School have returned from the workshop held at Radford College. Principal James A. Johnson, Jr. arranged for their attendance during the week of July 27 at this meeting held yearly for the benefit of those who will lead their student bodies during the coming year.

This workshop is considered one of the finest of its kind in the United States and observers from such states as Connecticut, Texas, Florida and North Carolina were in attendance. It is a week of concentrated work on all of the topics which are a part of the administration of any student cooperative association. Some of these are public relations of the student body with the community, with the faculty and among school organizations; school projects; parliamentary procedure; group dynamics; philosophy and framework of the student cooperative association.

From breakfast at 7 a.m. to the last activity at 10 p.m. it was a day of hard, but interesting work. Even the picnic on Tuesday evening included a series of talks based on the work and prepared by the students in a minimum of time.

The workshop is limited to 125 students and approximately 50 adult advisors, instructors and observers. Tommy Cayce stated that it was a wonderful experience and would have the effect of causing him to pre-plan the work and use more students than ever before in the activities of the S.C.A. during the next school year. Colonel Mack was highly complimentary of the workshop and stated that it would help the S.C.A. to improve relations within the student body as well as between the student body and the parents and the community.

A meeting of Mr. Johnson, Col. Mack and the S.C.A. officers will be held during August to prepare the outline of the work to be performed during the 1959-60 school year. Besides President Cayce, the officers are vice president, Leon Hublak; secretary, Trudy Kitchin; and treasurer, Pat Ricks.

Air Reservists End Maneuvers

Marine Air Reserve Squadron VMA-233, Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va., wound up 15 days of active duty Saturday, August 1, at their home base in conjunction with eastern United States Marine Air Reserve annual maneuvers.

During the period July 18-Aug. 1, more than 1,700 eastern United States Marine Air Reservists of the nation-wide command engaged in Operation Ready as the Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N.C., Marine Corps Auxiliary Air Station, Beaufort, S.C., and in the case of the Norfolk Squadron, at its home base.

Other Marine reserve squadrons from Minneapolis to Seattle - will team up for the second phase of Operation Ready at the Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, California, in mid-August.

A total of 13 squadrons at the East Coast bases included five Marine Reserve Attack squadrons and five Fighter squadrons. Aiding from the ground was five Air Control (Radar) squadrons, six Marine Air Reserve Groups also trained at Cherry Point.

The reserves represented include Washington, D.C., Grosses Ile, Michigan, Philadelphia, Pa., Atlanta, Ga., Jacksonville, Fla., Memphis, Tenn., Chicago, Ill., Boston, Mass., New York, N.Y., and Norfolk, Va.

The realistic training culminated in the 15 days sets as a barometer in determining the combat readiness of the reservists and supplementing the know-how acquired at regular drill periods held at the home base month throughout the year.

According to Lt. Col. Bruce Matheson, USMC, Commanding Officer of Norfolk's Marine Air Reserve Training Detachment, the reserves and the training squadrons would operate at their home base during Operation Ready with the receipt of orders from the aircraft and the training detachment involved in changing aircraft.

Squadron VMA-233 is composed of 31 officers and 150 enlisted men from southern Virginia and northern North Carolina.

Major Delmar J. Doe, Jr., of Virginia Beach is the squadron's officer.

'Moon Is Blue' Scores Direct Hit; Play Set for Tonight and Friday

Broadway, movie and TV star Shepperd Strudwick opened here last night in the Broadway comedy, "The Moon Is Blue." The enthusiastic first night audience gave every indication that tonight and Friday night will in all probability be sell-out houses.

Sponsored by the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Shrine Club, the F. Hugh Herbert comedy marks the first time that a "name" player has been brought to Virginia Beach to star in a play. Another first was scored by the Virginia Beach Convention Center, in that this is the first "legitimate" production to be performed in the Convention Center, which points out one more use that the new Dome affords the area.

According to Mrs. Julia Neims, Executive Secretary of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, more interest has been displayed in this production than in practically any other function held in the Dome since it opened last year. The Chamber of Commerce has handled ticket sales for the play.

Directed by Mrs. Arthur Masury, the cast of "The Moon Is Blue" includes Chichi Livley in the role of naive, ingenuit and romantically inclined Patty O'Neill, Monte Markham as the handsome young architect who "picks her up" atop the Empire State Building, and the gentleman of questionable intentions, David Slater, played by Shepperd Strudwick. E. Ashley Haycox entrepreneur for the Virginia Beach Players, plays the role of Patty's father, Mike O'Neill.

Speedy Thompson Second 500 Winner in Darlington Field

Alfred (Speedy) Thompson, 1957 victor in the Labor Day Southern 500-mile stock car classic became the second former winner today, to sign for this September's classic at Darlington Raceway.

Thompson will drive a 1959 Chevrolet Impala in the $70,000 event. He also drove a Chevrolet in his winning effort.

The 33-year-old veteran, whose 100.3 mph average for 500 miles was the first into the hundred-mile bracket, joins Curtis Turner, 1958 winner, in the Impala ranks to give the Chevrolet product a terrific one-two punch among early entries. Turner, although reserving the right to return to the Ford Thunderbird camp he has driven since 1955, has indicated he will make his first try in a Chevrolet Labor Day Joe Weatherly, Turner's long-time team-mate has entered a 1959 Ford Thunderbird.

Thompson came the closest, last year, to becoming the second driver to score a double win in the famous Southern 500, when he pulled into first place near the 100-lap mark.

A pit stop for fuel, later, left him in the position to regain the lead and build a long lead but an accident sent him to the pits for a lengthy stop. He eventually finished fourth. In 1958 Thompson, who makes his home in Charlotte, N. C., was second to Turner.

All records are expected to fall during the four-day qualifying runs and tenth Southern 500. A Chevrolet, this spring, eclipsed the record for the Rebel 500 by more than six minutes and a Thunderbird shattered the one and four lap qualifying marks set in 1956.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

An Apparent Reason

A week ago, Red Roberts wife gave birth to a baby boy. Naturally, we went to the hospital to see the new arrival. We found Red standing (and beaming) in front of the nursery window, saying things like "look—his got my eyes," and "his chin is shaped exactly like the Minnie," and "Yessir, that's my boy."

Just then a nurse whispered, "That Johnson baby is cute, isn't he Mr. Roberts? We'll bring yours out in a minute."

From where I sit, once in a while we all jump to conclusions without knowing the facts. For instance, some people are like that about my favorite homages—bees. They're quick to say that too or coffee go best at dinner time... when the fact of the matter is it's simply a question of choice. Intuition breeds an ignorance—and we ought to know before we "do-duce" an opinion on anything.

...you save two ways
with electric
water heating

VEPCO BETTER LIVING DEMONSTRATION

AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC WATER HEATING

VEPCO HOME DESIGN ENGINEERS: Right from the start, an Electric Water Heater saves you money. You can scratch the cost of fuel lines, vent or chimney from your building plans.

YOU: But don't most houses have a fireplace chimney anyway?

ENGINEERS: Even so, it is seldom in the best place for a water heater. Remember, if you have to put a water heater near a stove, and then carry hot water through a long run of pipe, it wastes a lot of heat. In fact, having to pipe water a long way rather than a short way from your water heater can make you pay for hundreds of gallons of hot water a month that you never get to use.

YOU: Can an Electric Water Heater save all that?

ENGINEERS: Certainly. An Electric Water Heater tucks in anywhere close to your sink and laundry. And if you have a long house, with kitchen-laundry at one end, and bedrooms and baths at the other end, you can easily put in two Electric Water Heaters—one at each location. They'll never disturb you, for they're 100% silent, and give off no heat or fumes. Better talk to your Appliance Dealer or Plumbing Contractor about the low-cost luxury of having abundant, automatic, around-the-clock hot water the modern ELECTRIC way.

Skeet Meet Puts Beach on Map

The world championship skeet shooting tournament just completed at the Princess Anne Gun Club here was a tremendous success from every standpoint. The meet was a fine tribute to the active members of the host Princess Anne Gun Club.

Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County received widespread publicity as a result of the skeet shoot. The Princess Anne Gun Club received high praise from veteran competitors for the fine facilities afforded these participating.

Another interesting development of the meet was the winning of the sub-junior title by a Virginia Beach youngster, 12-year-old Joseph Houska. We have not consulted the records but we are confident that this is the first time that Virginia Beach has produced a champion in this field.

The week-long championship has attracted marksmen from all over the United States and from foreign countries as well. Virginia Beach is publicized in all home town newspapers with news stories of the day's shoot emanating from here. This is valuable publicity for this resort.

All of this has come about through the efforts of the enthusiastic members of the Princess Anne Gun Club. Too much praise cannot be given this group of fine sportsmen and the community owes them a great vote of thanks for bringing this world event to our area.

The National Outlook

The upward trend of business is continuing on a broad front.

Gross national product, the monetary value of all goods and services produced, has been revised upward for the first quarter to $470 billion. The second quarter figure will be above $480.5 billion, which means it may pass $500 billion by the end of the year, substantially more rapid improvement than had been anticipated.

Equally important, overall prices have been relatively stable, which means the rise in gross national product is real and not the result of price increases.

Record Production in June
The Federal Reserve Board index of Production reached another all time high in June. The figure, 155, means production was 55 percent above the average of 1947-49.

The recession low, April 1958, was 126. Every month since then has shown an increase, and while there are some spots and some industries which have not recovered, it is true that both durable and non-durable manufacturing are now at record high. Mineral production is a little below its 1950-57 average.

Aggregate construction in June and for the first six months of this year were both up 15 percent from the same 1958 periods. It is now at an annual rate of $35.5 billion compared with $29 billion last year. Private housing starts were slightly less than the seasonal normal between May and June, but residential, including industrial, rose more than normal.

Retail trade remains strong. In June it was 10 percent above a year earlier. New automobile sales increased more than usual in June, and there is reason to believe the 1959 million domestically produced cars in 1959 is likely to be low.

Employment in June also established a new all time high—67,300,000. In manufacturing, the number of job holders rose 200,000 to about 16.5 million. Unemployment increased in June, as always, because students are unable to immediately find work. The percentage of the unemployed civilian labor force, however, remained unchanged from May—4.9. In other words, the increase of unemployment was merely seasonal.

Inventories continue to rise. Recently the increase on an annual basis has been about 20 billion, the same dollar amount as the maximum rate of decrease last year.

Investment in plant and equipment is on an upward and promising to remain so for many months. Corporate profits still are increasing and, before taxes, probably will be at least $50 billion this year.

There are some of the broad indications of the recovery's continuation. There are some unfavorable developments.

The Consumer Price Index in June advanced to a new all time high—124.5, with 1947-49 as equal to 100. The increase was largely caused by a hike in food prices. This is significant because, for a year, this index has been steady and the stability was the result of declining food prices offsetting rise in other parts of the tabulation.

The immediate question, of course, is whether this latest move is the start of an inflationary development. Ewan Clague, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, says it isn't—that in July the index will show little change, but that in August there should be a decline.

Another unfavorable development is the steel strike. No one knows how long that will last nor what it will take to settle it.

Exports are lagging. Imports up. Exports are not picking up to the degree that had been anticipated, and imports are still rising. Foreign nations which have been in recession are beginning to move out of it and this may help our international balance of payments.

Finally, the request of the Administration for removal of the interest rate ceiling on Government bonds has bogged down in Congress. The Treasury, accordingly, is doing its financing in the short-term market, and this has driven the rate of interest higher than it otherwise would be.

In spite of the unfavorable factors, the recovery is moving along at a good rate, and predictions are

ARAGONA CIVIC LEAGUE

Mr. Larry Marshall, President of the Aragona Civic League, announced that there will be a membership drive conducted during the month of August in an effort to build up the organization, which is pledged to work for the betterment and improvement of civic interests in the Aragona Village community.

It is hoped that every resident household and home-owner family will eventually become a member of the Aragona Civic League. The annual membership fee is $3.00 which covers the entire family. The membership committee has set a goal for this month's drive of four hundred new members. There will be a membership concert conducted for the week beginning August fifteenth through August twenty-second and several prizes will be awarded to those individuals turning in the greatest number of new members over six.

ARAGONA COMMUNITY CENTER, INC.

Mr. Harold Spilka, member of the Board of Directors of the Aragona Community Center, Inc., announced that there would be a meeting of the board held this week at which time several matters important to the Recreation Center would be discussed and an announcement of date of the regular meeting would be made thereafter.

Mr. Spilka stated further that great progress has been made in the plans for the Recreation Center. Although final financial report on the net proceeds realized from the community carnival recently held has not been made, it is believed it will prove most gratifying and much credit is due to the generous help and hard work of so many parents and merchants in the Village for the success of the carnival all of which is greatly appreciated by the members of the board.

VILLAGE TEEN CLUB DANCES

The Village Teen Club of wind Mr. Carlo Azenedo will serve as Adult Supervisor, will hold their weekly dances during the month of August at the Aragona Elementary School every Friday evening at 8:00 p.m. beginning August 7.

For the teenage group between the ages of thirteen and nineteen years. Admission will be fifty cents per person. For those individuals wishing membership in the County Recreation Youth Association will be twenty-five cents per person.

There will be good selections of dance music played by juke box and cold refreshments sold.

KINDERGARTEN THRILLS

The "smelly" of the Village and the mothers as well, will be happy to learn that there will be two kindergarten schools for children of five and six years of age. Mrs. E. K. Taylor, telephone UL 5-7422 and Mrs. Robert Bykes, telephone UL 3-1000 will be glad to furnish details of registration.

The Colonial Kindergarten will be conducted by Mrs. Beverly Hamilton at 7300 Olive Grove Court, from 9:00 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Mrs. Hamilton will be particularly now being made that we shall have good business for at least the next twelve and, perhaps, for the next eighteen months.

Interested in enrolling children who will enter the first grade in school in September, 1960.

MUSICAL PRODUCTION TO BE PRESENTED IN VILLAGE

During the past several months the residents of the Aragona Village community have had the privilege and pleasure of enjoying several Little Theatre Plays, Home Talent Shows, Carnivals, Students Scientific Exhibitions, Garden Club Productions, Community Dances, Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts events and a splendid season of Junior League Basketball activity, all of which have been planned, arranged for, produced by and participated in primarily by both the adults and children of the Village. This does not by any means constitute a full list of the pleasurable and advantageous civic activities which are continually taking place in this community. There are, in addition, several churches in the area which have congregations active in church work and which lend a generous hand in furnishing "friendly-get-togethers" in the Village.

It is with well-deserved pride that the residents and home-owners of Aragona Village can point to their "civic spirit" and say, "We like to live here."

One of the first events planned for Fall season is the musical production, "From Beginning to End" which will be presented by Mr. Leonard Friedman. This will be an opportunity to bring out the latent talent of those who dance, sing, or do impersonations. The play will enact and give interpretations of the dance from the earliest times to the present "space-age" which will, among others, include folk dances, and huts, the waltz, hornpipe, Charleston, black-bottom.

Mr. Friedman, GY 7-4480 and Mr. Spilka, GY 7-1207 invite those who may be interested in appearing in the production to telephone at an early date for details.

CIVIC LEAGUE'S SPINNING ENTERTAINERS

Announcement has been made that at the meeting of the Civic League, to be held Thursday August 13, Mr. Dave Berand will give a talk on dieting and proteins, and demonstrations as to the correct care of a home freezer, after which Mr. Berand will play a few selections on his banjo.

TIGERS WIN NO-HITTER FROM CUBS

These wonderfully earnest youngsters have been fighting tremendous odds all season. More important, their unity and undying spirit has been more than admirable. To be a winner is easy. To be a consistent loser, well, how many of us can sincerely say we can't on Friday's game, the entire team backed up their battery with on-the-ball effort. What player is newsworthy? Where can we begin? First base, Mike Kordis, batted the Tigers' first one over the center field fence. It couldn't have happened to a finer guy! This came in the 1st, with one on. Alloway to go. Mike and we'll see more of your ability next season. Jim McQuilkin pitched and fielded superbly. . . . a no-hitter and his second win for the Tigers. Ordinarily a catcher, this ball-player thrilled everyone, but only with his skill on the mound, but with his astuteness on defense. He was outstanding in the 7th, double-play of the season and came through with two outs in the 4th. His brother, Chipper, at shortstop handled the ball beautifully, particularly with an excellent peg at home in the 1st to save a run. Chuck Camera, who never known until "play ball" what position he will play, must come into mention. You caught a good game, Chuck. We're proud of you and all you Tigers!

The Cubs had one of those nights which happen to all ball clubs, but showed excellent sportsmanship and determination. These qualities, after all, are two major points of Little League play.

In the first game, Ken Caffery's 1st inning homer hit the fuse for the Sports. His single in the 2nd boosted by Chris Hanson's clean triple and Kordis' reaching hit made an error worth the 3 runs to clinch the American League pennant for the mighty Sports. Congratulations, all you Sports, and you go on in baseball as you have begun!

The Rotarians, plagued by move-away seem mean, gave a very thing. It's hard to single out specific players who did a job. The whole aggregation played well. Larry Mulkes remains one of the finest young ball-players with great, good luck and much success in the future. Larry, Mike Kenny, center fielder, came up with a single in the 6th to keep the game alive. And let's not forget right-fielder, Lee Eytan, who's share, beautifully caught long flys. Lee robbed two of the big ones. Watch that boy!

The Little League summer has been hectic, but we're thankful that it's all over. Oh well, it'll be a memory to sit down to a regular dinner. . . . may take a little getting used to!

Wednesday's Games

Pipers 7, Thunderbirds 3.

Little Giants 6, J.C. Hawks 8.

The Pipers won over the Thunderbirds in the 1st inning of play, and the Little Giants tied their game with the J.C. Hawks.

Jeff Shelton was the winning pitcher for the Pipers. Eddie Smith tied his team in the 6th with a double and a single, while Herman Allee and Bill Harris had singles. Mike Bates hit a double for the Thunderbirds. Rick Leonard had two singles, and Arthur Nixon had one. The Pipers are showing improved ball playing and giving stiff competition.

Thursday's Games

J.C. Hawks 4, Pipers 3.

Thunderbirds 16, Little Giants 13.

The J.C. Hawks edged out the Pipers in a close win. Peter Abouneess was the winning pitcher, giving up no runs in the 7th inning. Hawks were hitless until the bottom of the fourth, when James Ward and Tommy Treilcher connected. Ronnie Kull hit a double; Peter Abouneess and Camo Barco singled.

Battling averages went high, wide and handsome in the second game. Too many boys on both teams were hitting for us to single out players as there was a total of 29 hits. Sonny Wilgins was the winning pitcher for the Thunderbirds. Jimmy Batchelor held down the number two spot for the Little Giants and played mighty good ball behind the plate.

Our regular scheduled games are finished, but with three raised-out games to be played yet, we will wait until next week to give you the team standings.

The J.C. Hawks and the Little Giants will have their play-off game to determine the winner of the first half of the season on Saturday night.

control operators specializing in termite control work who attended a discussion meeting on new chemical control of termites in new construction held Friday, July 31st, in the Columbia Hotel, Columbia, S.C.

The session, called by the National Pest Control Association, of which Mr. Lee E. Chambers is a member, provided for the exchange of experiences among termite control operators.

Dr. Philip J. Spear, technical director of the national association whose home office is in Elizabeth, N.J., said in the opening session of the all-day meeting that "chemical pre-treatment of new homes in accordance with FHA specifications and with the professional skill of the pest control specialist, now offers the best protection against subterranean termite invasion that has ever been possible."

"The best protection against these termites is pre-treatment during construction," Dr. Spear said. "Modern chemical control creates a zone of poisoned soil through which termites cannot penetrate and survive. It is important, however, that the chemicals specified by FHA be employed with the knowledge and skill of the professional specialist if the maximum protection is to be assured."

United States Coast Guard Celebrates Anniversary

NORFOLK—On Tuesday, Aug. 4, the United States Coast Guard, a member of this Nation's Armed Forces and its principal Federal Agency for maritime law enforcement and marine safety, marked its 169th year of service to the maritime public.

On this day Coast Guardsmen aboard ships and on stations from Greenland to Korea observed this passing of another mile-stone quietly. Or as quietly as Coast Guardsmen possibly could; for out of necessity their services to the Nation continued.

Eastmen, themselves celebrating a day off from work or on vacation, still had a sleek white rescue boat available should trouble happen.

Likewise, Loran Stations in the Atlantic and Pacific still emitted that all important radio impulse for the trans-oceanic navigator to use in plotting his course.

In the 12 key rescue coordination centers throughout the United States (this includes Alaska and Hawaii), men stood watch around the clock, kept the eye of the Coast Guard on the waterways and skyways ready, as on any other day, to send a ship or plane to the aid of those in distress.

Perhaps a few of us are aware of the vast and varied services furnished by the Coast Guard to the maritime public. And perhaps even fewer are those that realize how closely the history of the Coast Guard is linked with that of our Nation.

The Revenue-Marine, forerunner of the present Coast Guard was born when Congress passed and George Washington signed a bill which authorized the construction of "10 boats" for "securing the collection of revenues," and for guarding the coast against smuggling.

During the years between the disbanding and re-establishment of the Navy, 1784-1796, it was our only armed force afloat.

The Coast Guard has served with distinction in all our major conflicts. The record includes a leading role in the undeclared war with France in 1796; the stamping out of piracy in the Gulf of Mexico, participation in the Civil War, as well as in both World Wars.

In 1915, the Revenue Cutter Service and the Lifesaving Service merged and the name was changed to United States Coast Guard.

In 1939, the Lighthouse Service was included in the Coast Guard's organization, and in 1942, the Bureau of Marine Inspection was temporarily transferred to the Coast Guard; the transfer was made permanent in 1946.

The strength of the Coast Guard today is approximately 2,800 officers and 26,300 enlisted men. This plus a strong Reserve training program enables it to carry out increased duties and responsibilities should a national emergency threaten.

In peacetime, the Coast Guard's duties are many and varied.

Much time and effort is devoted to enforcing safety regulations for small boats. The rules provide that motorboats must carry a minimum amount of safety equipment such as lifejackets, lights, fire extinguishers, bells, whistles, etc.

The Coast Guard not only boards small boats to inspect them and insure compliance with law, but also carries out a program of training boat owners in the techniques of safe piloting and operation.

Since the loss of the Titanic in 1912, the Coast Guard has been charged with conducting the International Ice Patrol. An area of 45,000 square miles in the North Atlantic is patrolled; through this area passes the world's heaviest shipping traffic. During the ice season, from April to mid-July, many ice bergs drift from the Arctic into commercial shipping lanes.

New ideas and innovations for combating the ice menace are being constantly employed. In safeguarding merchant shipping the Coast Guard keeps abreast of the latest scientific developments and employs the newest equipment after it has been checked and found satisfactory for ice-patrol work.

Another big job of the Coast Guard is maintenance of an Ocean Weather Station program. At the present time, the United States maintains four ocean stations in the Atlantic and two in the Pacific. Coast Guard Cutters, with weather bureau meteorologists and equipment, cruise for 21-day periods in an ocean area 210 miles square so that the weathermen can gather on-the-spot data to relay to the Weather Bureau. Forecasts and storm warnings based on such data permit transoceanic ships and planes to avoid dangerous climatic conditions. During 1958, 32 Coast Guard Cutters were involved in this program.

Latest addition to the Coast Guard organization is the Marine Inspection Service. This branch supervises the merchant marine industry to insure compliance with Coast Guard regulations for design and construction of vessels, safety and comfort of passengers and crew, proficiency of officers and seamen, and the signing on and off of a ship's personnel.

Marine Inspection Offices are located in all the major ports of the U.S. to facilitate that functioning of the service to the merchant marine industry. Study, aimed at improving marine safety methods and devices is continuously undertaken by the Coast Guard.

The recent establishment of a Merchant Vessel reporting program has made notable progress toward increased safety at sea. Under this program, all merchant vessels within the North Atlantic Maritime Region, including the Gulf of Mexico, and the Caribbean are required to report their position periodically to the Coast Guard at New York. Upon receipt in New York, the information is plotted and, by means of a machine computer, is kept up to date, ready for instant use in case of distress.

The importance of a safe and efficient merchant marine is reflected in the fact that approximately one-fourth of Coast Guard officer personnel is employed in merchant marine safety activities. In March, 1958, the requirements were fulfilled to effect the International Convention establishing the intergovernmental Maritime Consultative Organization under the United Nations. The Coast Guard's role will be encouragement of highest practicable standards for safety and efficiency.

Search and rescue is perhaps the best known of the Coast

Guard's activities. To maintain this highly efficient function 12 major rescue coordinations centers are located in key ports of the United States. Here trained officers and men coordinate rescue procedures, making sure that the units involved are kept abreast of each pertinent facet of the incident. These "nerve centers" are manned around the clock, for distress knows no time table.

From the "nerve" centers, typewriters, telephones and radio transmitters and receivers link the lifeboat stations, air stations, bases, and ships of the Coast Guard in a vast communications web. So extensive is the "web" that a "duty officer" at the Coast Guard Air Station, Corpus Christi, Texas, can exchange information with the Coast Guard Air Station, Salem, Mass., by teletype within minutes.

Through a national search and rescue agreement, the Coast Guard can have at their disposal the men and equipment of other Armed Forces and certain Federal agencies, to assist in rescue.

The Coast Guard can well be proud of its rescue functions which date back to 1831, when the first winter cruise was ordered to aid seafarers and ships in distress. Perhaps one of the most dramatic rescue operations effected in recent years took place in September, 1947, when the Coast Guard on Ocean Station "Echo" directed an intensive search for the survivors of the ill-fated German training bark, PAMIR, resulting in the saving of six survivors.

Aviation plays a major part in Coast Guard search operations. Last year Coast Guard aircraft flew a total of 20,135 missions assisting 383 distressed aircraft, making 19 on-ship landings and carrying out 219 helicopter hoists. Perhaps illustrative of the importance of helicopters in search and rescue is the dramatic "helicopter lifeline" which rescued 45 seamen from the ill-fated African Queen last December of Ocean City, Maryland.

The Coast Guard maintains the many aids to navigation which dot the sea, pointing the way to safe channels, harbors and anchorages.

There are over 39,000 aids maintained by the Coast Guard. About two-thirds are buoys, and more than 500 are fully manned light-houses.

The tallest lighthouse in service today is the 191-foot Cape Charles light. The highest light, though it has only a 46-foot tower, is perched 422 feet above the Pacific on Cape Mendocino, California.

LORAN (long range aid to navigation) is one of the most important of the Coast Guard "guide posts." It serves coastal shipping and peacetime needs. Born shortly before the United States entered World War II, Loran owes a large part of its development to the Coast Guard. By war's end, the Loran System extended from Greenland to Tokyo. In 1955, the Coast Guard operated 54 Loran Stations in the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf of Mexico.

As you can see, by the multitude of duties, each man in the Coast Guard is important. Each has to be a specialist—not at just one job, but at many. In short, the emphasis in the Coast Guard is on brains as well as brawn. Only in this manner can the Coast Guard carry out its manifold duties, true to the traditions of more than 160 years of service to our country in war and in peace.

'8-Stickers' Due to Expire; Early
Inspection Urged

Richmond. "Are you behind the '8-sticker'?" asked Captain R. B. King, State Police Safety Officer, today.

Captain King was referring to the white numeral "8" on the green motor vehicle inspection sticker which was issued to motorists who had their cars inspected last February.

Motorists issued this number must obtain, some time during the month of August, a new yellow-and-black sticker which will bear the numeral "2" to designate inspection has been achieved during the sixth month after the cars were checked last February and will be due for inspection again next February.

Although most motorists prefer to have their cars inspected during the same two chosen months each year, Captain King pointed out that inspection months can be changed according to the desires of the individual car owner. This is done by presenting the car for inspection during any month prior to the required one. As an example, he said, a motorist who has chosen February and August for his inspection months and who has received his "8" stickers designating reinspection in February may achieve inspection during any month prior to February and thus change the cycle. Should he select November, he would be issued a "3" sticker and reinspection would be due in May and again the following November.

Captain King stated that the final termination of all stickers issued under the old procedure was carried out during June with a minimum of congestion and that early reports showed the first reinspection under the new system to be going well during July.

"We are, however, making the same plea again that car owners do not wait until the last few days of their inspection months. But present their vehicles early for reinspection and avoid the inconvenience and waiting," he concluded.

coarsely ground roughage may not reduce butterfat test.

Research from Oregon State College and Wisconsin show that butterfat tests can be maintained when dairy cows are fed wafers made from chopped or long roughage. Generally, butterfat test had been reduced whenever finely ground roughages are fed in either loose or pelleted form.

Disadvantages at the present time are the cost of pelleting, the machinery cost, and the extra handling necessary when a stationary mill is used. Another big disadvantage is the need of special equipment, such as self-feeders, conveyors and elevators, to make the most efficient use of the pellet or wafer.

In the future, Griffith says, it seems that pelleting or wafering of roughage will be mainly a matter of convenience for large feedlot operators. It will be of particular interest for dairymen located in areas where roughage is scarce. Until nutritional advantages are found for dairy cattle, such a consistently greater roughage intake or greater feed efficiency, feeding pellets or wafers could be justified solely on the basis of any operational advantage. The only well-established operational advantage at the present time is that less storage space is required for pellets and wafers.

Pelleting and wafering of roughage and grain combinations should be accepted immediately by feed manufacturers and those buying or selling surplus roughage. It is likely that some alfalfa dehydrators may waver alfalfa hay during the off season for sale in roughage-deficient areas or to large commercial herds. A decrease in the bulk of surplus hay could markedly reduce transportation costs and make the marketing of hay for dairy cows more practical.

The use of this process on dairy farms in Virginia will have to await the improvement of equipment, new operational advantages, and more definite nutritional advantages. Even then, the economy of this method of preparing roughage will have to be determined before it will be widely adopted, Griffith says.

Virginia State Fair Stated to Open September 25

More than 50 rides and shows will comprise the midway of the 1959 State Fair of Virginia to be held here September 25 through October 3. "Missing Bow" by Luck
Sun-News

Here it is August again! And August is Sandwich month. The Maine Sardine Council sends along news of the "Maine Sardine Hero Sandwich" — they are "The Greatest" they say.

Mesty Maine Sardines are wonderful in that all-time favorite of the hungry young crowd — the hero sandwich. Whether you call them heroes or submarines, or Italian Sandwiches or Grinders, Sardines give a deliciously different flavor to the hearty meal-in-itself sandwich.

Statistics have shown that teenagers often suffer from "hidden hunger." Because they are so constantly on the fly, they are inclined to skip regular, balanced meals. They fill up on all sorts of odds and ends, frequently stoking themselves with quick energy sweets, and missing the protein that their still growing bodies need so desperately.

New research by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology shows that Maine Sardines and bread form an almost perfect dietary combination. The high quality protein in the little silvery fish tends to build strong muscles rather than fat.

For teen-time snacks, hero sandwiches are easily prepared at home. Individual rolls may be used or a loaf of crusty Italian bread split lengthwise. The filling may be varied as your larder and your ingenuity allow, but sardines should be included both for flavor and to provide the needed protein.

A delicious combination is mustard, cheese, small pickled sweet peppers — easily available in any Italian Grocery store and Maine Sardines. A real Italian flavor is achieved by the use of olive oil and oregano.

Your teenagers will love their home-made heroes and Mother will be happy in the knowledge that her youngsters are getting the nourishment they need.

1. loaf of crusty Italian bread, split lengthwise
- 1 cup of sardines
- 1/2 cup of mustard
- 1/2 cup of cheese
- 1/2 cup of small pickled sweet peppers, stemmed and seeded
- 2 cans (4 oz) Maine sardines, drained

Cut bread or rolls in half lengthwise. Brush inside with oil, sprinkle with oregano. Place cheese on bottom half of bread. Cut peppers in quarters; lay on cheese. Arrange sardines over peppers. Replace top of bread or rolls. Yield: 4 servings.

Maine Sardine Sandwiches

1. Spread bread with mustard. Add Maine sardines, sliced tomatoes and sliced cheese. Top with another mustard-spread slice of bread.
2. Spread bread with pickle relish. Top with Maine sardines and slices of pimiento. Top with another slice of bread.
3. Split hot dog rolls. Mash Maine sardines and combine with sour cream, prepared horseradish and chopped, unpeeled radishes. Fill rolls with mixture.
4. Combine a can of Maine sardines with two teaspoons grated lemon rind. Add mayonnaise to moisten. Serve on hamburger buns.
5. Mash leftover baked beans.

American Little League Holds Annual Banquet

The annual banquet of the American Little League was held at the Dome on Thursday, July 30. Attendance was good—188 including parents and guests — the food was fine, the boys well-behaved, the ceremonies smooth, the speeches short and to the point. Everyone seemed to have a good time.

Mr. Laurin H. Potter, outgoing president, presided, introducing representatives from the sponsors of the four teams, then thanked each one who had helped with Little League baseball this season. The long-suffering umpires even got a hand!

The ball-player with the highest batting average of each team presented his coach with a gift of appreciation, and "as boys" had something for Mr. Potter to help soothe the headaches and toll of the summer labors of the president. The farm team boys remembered their player-agent-coach too.

City-manager Russell Hatchett spoke briefly, commending the good accomplished by Little League and comparing the rules of adult living with those of team play. R. Irvine Smith, Little League district 6 representative, expressed appreciation to the grown-ups in their effort to help combat juvenile delinquency through baseball, and spoke admirably of the community interest in youth shown at Virginia Beach.

Lapel pins were given the American League all-stars: Ken Caffey, Joe Potter, Chris Hanson, Peter Holland, Larry Malhes, Bruce Hawes, Steve Munday, Mark Hansen, Charlie Miller, Steve Vito, Larry Powell, Jim McQuiklin, Mike Reville, Guy Standing. Certificates went to the graduating 12-year-olds: Sports; Tim Fanne, Ken Caffey, Joe Potter, Peter Holland, Chris Hanson, Cub: Rodney Tomlin, Robert Sparks, Tommy McCormick, Charlie Miller, Steve Vito, Rotarians: Bruce Hawes, Larry Fiddo, Larry Malhes, Billy Lockwood, Mar Hansen, Bill Galliard, Bob Riera, Tigers: Chuck Camera, Jim McQuiklin, Larry Fowell.

American Little League officers for the coming year were nominated and elected by secret ballot. They are: President, Dallas E. Entsminger; Vice-president, Mrs. Nellie P. Bell; Secretary, Mrs. Katherine Coates; Treasurer, Mrs. Lili Entsminger.

Flower Show Judges Meet

Mrs. Robert L. Little, President of the Virginia Council of Accredited Flower Show Judges announced today the semi-annual meeting of the Virginia Council of Accredited Flower Show Judges was held August 4 with an 8 p.m. Dinner meeting at the VPI Campus at Blacksburg, Virginia.

Following the dinner, a business meeting and program was slated for the VPI Commerce Hall at 7:30. Speaker was Mrs. Paul Frenzel of Glendale, California and Bedford County, Virginia. Her subject was "Changing Concepts in Flower Arranging." Mrs. Frenzel is a National Council Instructor in Flower Arrangements, is the immediate past chairman of the National Council Reading Committee and is now serving on the National Council Public Relations Committee.

There were about 180 accredited judges in the state of Virginia and many from the Tidewater area attend. The judges meeting was simultaneous with the First Course of the Flower Judging to be held at the VPI Campus August 3 thru 6th. The 3-day course is sponsored by the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs in cooperation with the Department of Horticulture of the

Cancer Society Official Pays Last Call on P.A. Unit

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor for the building of character and citizenship. It is a wonderful spiritual value. Without a church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

NOTES FROM YOUR COUNTY AGENT

By E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

LISTEN TO YOUR COUNTY AGENT 12:30 MON. THRU FRI. ON WHOP: 6:20 THURSDAYS, W.T.A.R.; 12:10 SATURDAY, WTAR

KNOW TO WHOM YOU TALK!
A dusty, shrewd-looking man descended from his car outside the farmer's house. "Fine piece of land out here," he exclaimed.

"You're right there," replied the farmer eagerly. "Is the best to be found in the county."

"Bit too high a figure for a poor man, I reckon!" asked the stranger.

"It's worth every penny of $500 an acre," answered the farmer with an eye to business. "You thinking of buying and settling in these parts?"

"Hardly," said the stranger, as he made some notes in a book. "I'm the new tax assessor."

WOOL GROWERS VOTE IN SEPT.
Sheep producers will vote in September in a nation-wide referendum on the question of continuing to finance a market development program for wool and lambs.

The program consists of advertising, promotion, and related activities carried out under an agreement with the American Sheep Producers Council. It is financed by deductions from wool incentive payments earned by producers under the National Wool Program. The deductions may not exceed the rates of 1 cent per pound for short wool and 5 cents per hundredweight for lambs.

The program, which has been in effect since 1955, will be continued through 1961 if producers owning two-thirds of the sheep and lambs represented in the vote approve.

Voting will extend through the entire month of September to make it as easy as possible for all producers to participate. The County ASC Office will mail ballots to producers before September 1 and to be counted in the vote the ballots must be returned to the ASC Office by September 30.

The referendum relates only to the market development program for wool and lambs and does in no way affect the continuation of the wool incentive program extended for a three-year period last summer.

LARGE DAIRIES NEED MODERN KNOWLEDGE

Large-scale dairy enterprises need up-to-date engineering methods if the dairyman expects to stay profitable in the business, says W. S. Griffith, dairy specialist at VPI.

He points out that concentration of large numbers of dairy cows, equipment and labor into relatively small areas intensified the problems of design, investment, labor management, and sanitation.

Large dairies—400 to 1,500 milking cows—may become more widespread in the future he said. Because most of these large dairies operate on hired labor, it is necessary to have well-engineered layout of buildings, lots, lanes, and gates to promote labor efficiency if the business is to be profitable.

At big dairies, just getting the cows to and from the milking area is a problem. Traffic control can be aided by time and travel studies that tend to eliminate bottlenecks.

Care of cows and efficiency can depend on the fatigue of the milker. Three-year records of a 600-cow dairy in California, reported recently at a meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, showed to the farm manager that the dairy herd could produce more milk more rapidly and with less labor, in elevated stalls rather than in floor-level stalls. The difference in production was largely because of the extra care given cows milked in the elevated stalls by milkers who were less tired because they did not have to squat or stoop.

The production difference between the two systems was enough to pay for the original stall system torn down and replaced by an elevated stall system. Original cost of the string barn is expected to be made up in less than one year by the increase in production from cows in the new elevated-stall layout.

FIELD INSPECTIONS FINISHED ON SMALL GRAIN ACREAGE
Field inspections for certification on the largest small grain acreage in the history of the Virginia Crop Improvement Association have just been completed.

Association officials say a total of 18,189 acres of small grains (wheat, oats, barley, and rye) were inspected for certification this year, an increase of over 3,000 acres. Of this total 7,661 acres, or 42 per cent, passed the field inspection.

The increase in the percentage of crops meeting the registered standards indicates a continued improvement in the quality of seed being produced in Virginia. Association officials say. And the continuing upward trend in the small grain acreage grown for certification indicates an increasing demand for certified seed.

The number of different varieties of the different small grain crops certified this year are: wheat, 12 varieties; oats, 15 varieties; barley, 5 varieties; rye, 2 varieties. As usual, two varieties of wheat, Seneca and Thorne, comprise a large percentage of the total wheat acreage, and 80 per cent of the barley inspected was Wong. Two varieties of oats, Arlington and Lee Cold Proof, accounted for about 49 per cent of the total acreage.

LEAFSPOTS TROUBLESOME IN ALFALFA FIELDS

Leafspots are causing trouble in Virginia's alfalfa fields these days. S. B. Fenne, plant pathologist at VPI, reports that most of the alfalfa disease specimens received at the VPI plant disease clinic the past few weeks have been of various leafspots. Losses may be considerable, particularly during rainy, humid weather. Control is difficult. Early cutting may be advisable to avoid leaf drop. All commercial varieties are susceptible to leafspot. However, recommended varieties are better adapted.

Yellowed alfalfa specimens continue to be received. In several cases this is the result of lack of nodules on the roots. Nodule-forming bacteria are absent, but there is no practical way to inoculate alfalfa in the field.

Farmers continue to plant corn in direct contact with fertilizer, and they continue to pay for it. Many corn specimens are showing fertilizer injury. The injured areas serve as a source of entry for various soil organisms, and specimens then show seedling blight. In addition to seedling blight, several sweet corn specimens are showing bacterial wilt. In all cases of bacterial wilt, severe flea beetle injury has been evident.

Heavy infections of scab showed up on wheat, and on some barley. In most cases scab infection was followed by sooty mold. Scab is really the cause of shriveled grain, and sooty mold merely appears after the plants mature or have been killed by some other cause. On many specimens glume blotch was also present. Recently blotch is being seen much more often than before, and it may be more serious than has been thought, Fenne says. Seed treatment with a recommended mercury product, and planting wheat in a rotation (not a follow wheat after barley, or corn) are the only suggestions for control of scab and glume blotch.

A few oat specimens have been received, although it is late for oats. The disease of most concern has been red leaf—a comparatively new virus disease. Some varieties, such as No. 0-305 seem to be somewhat resistant to red leaf. Aphids apparently transmit the virus from plant to plant.

Chemical seed treatment of all cereals is recommended. However, Fenne says do not use treated seed for feed. Reports of animals dying from eating only trace amounts of mercury-treated grain have been received.

In truck crops, tomatoes lead the list of diseased specimens received at VPI. Some are damaged by fusarium wilt or bacterial wilt, and some show hormone injury resulting from using contaminated spraying equipment. Some specimens are infected with grey mold, and some with early blight. Late blight has not yet been reported to the clinic. A comparatively new disease, internal browning, has been found a few times.

Root rot is troublesome on beans. In most cases beans had been planted in the same area for several years until the soil became highly infested with common root rotting organisms. Rot has been greatly aggravated where fertilizer was applied in the row with beans. Beans are very susceptible to fertilizer injury, and fertilizer should never be applied in the row, Fenne says. It should be applied as a side-dressing.

BOSSEY'S COMFORT IMPORTANT PROFIT-WINER ON DAIRY FARM

Bossey's comfort is important from the standpoint of profit on the dairy farm.

Dr. G. C. Graf, head of the dairy science department at VPI, says cow comfort is especially important during hot dry summer months. A little extra care and consideration can help avoid the much-talked about slump in summer milk production. He says:

Provide plenty of water. Provide shade in the pasture lot and loafing areas. Production drops rapidly when temperatures rise above 75 degrees and relative humidity is high.

Save best pastures for night grazing. During hot weather cows graze less during the day and more during the night.

Keep flies off the cows. In tests conducted at the University of Illinois, production dropped 15 per cent when nothing was done to control flies. Fly control not only helps maintain summer production, but also results in better production later.

Be sure there is plenty of feed when pastures are short. Do not rely on pasture forage only during hot dry weather. Feed top quality hay and/or silage along with pasture forage, and don't neglect grain feeding. A daily feeding of grain chop is fine if you can work it into the feeding program.

Dr. Graf warns that if a cow slumps in milk production now she will not give as much milk later in the fall when pastures come back and temperatures are more comfortable.

MORE TESTS NEEDED BEFORE GENERAL RECOMMENDATIONS MADE ON PELLETS, WAFERS

More research is needed before general recommendations can be made in Virginia on the use of pelleted and wafered roughages for dairy cattle.

Meanwhile, says W. S. Griffith, dairy specialist at VPI, dairymen and feed dealers are showing a lot of interest in pelleted and wafered roughages and a review of work done to date is in order.

A pellet, Griffith explains, is the unit produced by a standard pellet machine used in the feed industry today. It requires the use of finely ground material. Pellets vary in length from 1 to 1½ inches and in diameter from ¼ to 2 inches. A wafer is the unit produced by an adapted pellet machine. The wafer, is usually made of chopped or long hay, or it can consist of other roughages and may even be in combination with some grain.

The feeding of a complete pellet consisting of hay and grain may have some nutritional advantages. It may allow greater feed intake on high roughage rations. It may, under some conditions, increase feed efficiency. It allows for simultaneous feeding of a balanced diet.

There are some indications that butterfat tests can be maintained on a pellet that contains finely ground roughage or roughages and grain if normal roughage is fed at the rate 1 pound of hay equivalent per 100 pounds of body weight per day. There are also indications that a pellet or cube containing

bigger brakes

Bigger, yes, and built with bonded linings for as much as 66% longer life. And how's this for proof that Chevy's a real stopper: in a NAS-CAR* conducted test of repeated stops from highway speeds, Chevrolet outstopped both of the "other two" time after time.

*National Association for Stock Car Advancement and Research.

award-winning engines

The NASCAR Outstanding Achievement award goes to Chevrolet! Chevy wins for "the creation and continuing development of America's most efficient V-type engines... for the establishment of new levels of V8 compactness combined with outstanding smoothness." And you can choose among eight V8's and the Six that won the Mobilgas Economy Run for its class.

full coil ride

You're the expert on ride, so you'll want to try Chevy's easygoing smoothness for yourself. MOTOR TREND magazine can give you a hint of what you're in for: "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." And Full Coil springs, of course, never squeak, never need grease.

fresh styling

POPULAR SCIENCE magazine gave Chevy's styling a thoughtful look, then said it this way: "In its price class, Chevy establishes a new high in daring styling..." You'll find your own happy way of saying that Chevy's the only unmistakably modern car in its class.

greater roominess

Automobile Manufacturers Association records carry the facts on this. In a Chevy sedan, for example, you've got more front seat head room than all but one of the high-priced cars! And Chevy's front seat hip room spreads up to 6.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

bigger savings

Here's solid proof that Chevrolet squeezes more miles out of a gallon: In the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, two Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide took the first two places in their class. Winning mileage: 22.38 m.p.g. And that, friends, took top honors for Chevy from every full-sized car!

higher trade-in

N.A.D.A.* Guide Books prove that your Chevrolet will keep its value. Chevy used car prices last year, for example, averaged up to $123 higher than comparable models of the other two cars in Chevrolet's field.

ILLINOIS YOUTH WINS ALL-GAUGE SKEET SHOOT CHAMPIONSHIP

13-Year-Old Bob Shuley Crowned Top Shooter at P.A. Gun Club

The world's skeet shooting championship today belongs to a 13-year-old marksmen from the State of Illinois. He is Bob Shuley of Roselle, Illinois, who captured the all-gauge world title in the tournament that concluded Sunday at the Princess Anne Gun Club.

The new champion bested James Kelly of Phoenix, Arizona, in a shootoff for the title. Shuley hit 375 out of 375 targets while Kelly made it 374 out of 375. He is the first junior skeet shooter in history to win the all-gauge championship.

Everyone agreed the world's championship meet was a tremendous success. The Princess Anne Gun Club and its members received lavish praise from the contestants. It was such a success that the national association voted to return to the local gun club next year.

By winning the all-gauge open championship, he automatically annexed the junior crown as well.

"How did you feel when you took that optional shot?" a reporter asked him.

"Fine," he answered with a grin. "Cool as a cucumber, eh?" somebody asked.

"And twice as green," he wisely cracked.

Four gunners went into the straight in the regular event. Besides Shuley and Kelly Charles Ward Clemmons, N. C., and Kenneth Sedelky, an 18-year-old shooter from Baldwin, Mich.

Sedelky won the 20-gauge crown in a shootoff Wednesday, firing a 350 straight in the regular event and the shoot-off.

He added 250 straight with the 12-gauge gun in the regular all-gauge event, to total 600 straight birds.

He finally missed the number six low bird in singles in the first round of the shoot-off, leaving Shuley and Kelly to battle it out for two more rounds before Kelly dropped the low six single in the fifth round to give the youngster the championship.

Burton Named Top Fire Chief Head for State

Willie H. Burton, Fairfax County's fire marshal, was elected president of the Virginia Fire Chiefs Association Tuesday at the Convention Hall.

C. L. Marshall, superintendent of Charlottesville's fire department, was elected first vice president, and Lawson W. Osborne, South Boston's fire chief, second vice president.

Chief W. J. Lewis of the Norfolk Fire Division was among those elected to the executive committee.

Site Committee Recommendation Gets OK; Land Donated by Aragona

The Princess Anne Memorial Hospital Commission on Monday accepted a 15-acre site for the proposed county hospital which was donated by real estate developer John Aragona.

The search for a site thus ended with no opposition being voiced at the public meeting to the proposed site which is located just east of Rosemont road at the old Rosemont station. It was estimated that the present value of the tract is $100,000.

Acceptance of the site followed a recommendation of the 11-member site committee that the hospital commission approve the tract offered by Aragona.

The accepted site is at the eastern boundary of a new development planned as Princess Anne Plaza. Aragona, developer of Aragona Village and other housing projects, hopes to break ground for the first homes in the $80,000,000 development sometime this year.

After the site committee's recommendation was read by hospital commission secretary Richard J. Webbon, the meeting was opened to discussion.

Howard Kahn of Virginia Beach asked if the hospital might be annexed by the City of Norfolk.

Webbon replied that any site further to the east was unsuitable since it fell within the boundaries of the Chesapeake Bay Station. In his opinion, Webbon also said, the apparent dividing line for any future annexation would be Lynnhaven Inlet, to the west of the Rosemont site.

Ayer Holland of Virginia Beach asked how long before water and sewage facilities would be available at the site. Aragona answered that he expected to have them installed by spring.

Other speakers expressed approval of the Princess Anne Plaza location from the floor. They included Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce president Linwood Clements, Virginia Beach attorney George P. Larden and Carroll S. Clough, Bayshore District Supervisor.

Dr. Ira L. Hancock of Creeds, chairman of the commission, announced that members of the legal, publicity, building, financial and professional advisory committees will be appointed later.

Paved roads will extend from Virginia Beach boulevard through the development to Lynnhaven and the present Holland Swamp road, which will allow ready access to the hospital from the southern end of the county.

Other sites considered were the former Pungo airfield, a site north of Laskin road at Hilltop, a site near the Kempsville Meadows School, the area of the present Virginia Beach Hospital, and about 30 acres of tax-sale land near Thalia.

Besides Aragona, Webbon and Dr. Hancock, committee members attending included Frank D. Taylor, Jr., of Virginia Beach, attorney for the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors, and the Virginia Beach City Council.

Seaside Park Closing Just 4 Weeks Away

The swim-and-frolic season at Seaside Park, Virginia Beach, has only four more weeks to go, and thousands of visitors to the famed Atlantic Oceanfront are availing themselves of the opportunity to sport in the surf, sun on the sand and enjoy the rides and free attractions at one of America's most attractive amusement parks.

Mike Monroe, a trampoline comedian, is the current free attraction on the outdoor stage at Seaside Park. Monroe does his clever and amusing bit twice a day, at 2:30 and 9:30 p.m., and as an extra free attraction on Sunday afternoon the ventriloquist act of TV fame, Bob and Chaney, is also presented.

On Aug. 17 Beatrice Dante and her TV chimp, a favorite with children everywhere, come to the resort for a week's stay as the free attraction; on Aug. 24 Frank Cook, high wire comedian, will appear; and on Aug. 31 Pat Barrett, an aerial balancing star of wide appeal—he won a large following here with his act last season—will usher in the last week of act activity at the park for the 1959 season.

Virginia Beach Jazz Festival Planned at Lee Theatre Aug. 30

The appearance of Don Elliott will headline a star-studded lineup of internationally popular jazz personalities who will be here to perform at the "First Annual Virginia Beach Jazz Festival" on August 30 at the Robert E. Lee Amphitheatre (scene of the Confederacy).

Generally regarded as the most versatile artist in contemporary jazz today, the vibraphone-melodist, trumpet playing Elliott will be featured in the two and one-half hour program, the first of its kind to be done in this area. Don, a six-time Downbeat Magazine award winner, was a top attraction at the Newport Jazz Festival on many occasions and at the Playboy Jazz Festival in Chicago this year.

The complete lineup in addition to Don Elliott will be the New York Jazz Quartet, The Charlie Byrd Quintet from Washington, D.C., The Jolly Roger Dixieland Stars, and Miss Ann Rayburn, vocalist. Fred Jordan will be master of ceremonies. Festival Director Tommy Gwaltney released the following information on the participating groups and artists:

The New York Jazz Quartet... This popular group is unique in that all its players are well known jazz stars in their own right. The personnel includes Milt Mathews, the famous Dutch accordionist Sam Most, clarinet and flute, formerly with Tommy Dorsey and voted the best new clarinet star of 1958 in the Downbeat Critics' Poll; Joe Puma, guitarist, Metro-nome's Musician of the Year in 1957; and Whitley Mitchell, bass, who was featured with Gene Krupa, Charlie Ventura, and Pete Rugolo. The quartet has recorded extensively and played at the better jazz clubs and festivals throughout the country.

Accompanying Col. and Mrs. Mosely in the receiving line were Lt. Col. and Mrs. W. C. Newman, of Blint Hill Farms Station, Va., where Col. Newman is the commanding officer. Mrs. Newman is the sister of Mrs. Mosely.

Among the guests attending were Col. A. M. Johnson, Chief of Staff, USATTC, Fort Eustis, Va., and Mrs. Johnson; Col. Arthur L. Baker, Commanding Officer of Fort Story, and Mrs. Baker. Also present were Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. Y. Olsson, Lt. Col. and Mrs. G. M. Foley, Lt. Col. and Mrs. J. H. Hanna, Lt. Col. and Mrs. G. B. Stern, Lt. Col. and Mrs. F. M. Stout, Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. M. Colonel and Mrs. Mosely's eldest daughter, who is attending the University of Alaska, was unable to return for the festive occasion.

FORMER NAVY MAN IS SOLDIER OF THE MONTH

A man who has been in the Army, Navy and back to the Army again was chosen to be Fort Story's Soldier of the month for June.

Specialist John M. Porter entered the Army in 1949. When he left the Army after three years he immediately entered the Navy and served in it for almost four years. He then reentered the Army.

Porter explained this switching of services because he "wants to make a career of the service and learn as much of its branches as possible." He also stated that he is now planning to stay in the Army.

During the same week that he was chosen as Soldier of the Month, Specialist Porter received word that he is eligible to attend the non-commissioned officer's course at Fort George G. Meade in Maryland.

At Fort Story, Porter is the mail clerk for Headquarters Company of the 4th Transportation Terminal Command "C." His home is in Somerville, Mass.

He was chosen for the award

STORY LITTLE LEAGUE THROWS NO-HITTER

Little League Baseball at this Army post got off to a flying start this week, when James Bernard pitched a no-hitter in an opener between the Yankees and Tigers.

Bernard, a rangy 12 year-old, struck out 18 men and walked nine to give his Tigers an 11-2 win over the Yankees. Both of the Yankee runs were scored on errors, giving Bernard a perfect earned run average for the opening contest.

Radioman Jodice, a Navy specialist, who coaches the Little League Tigers, said that Bernard, who is visiting the post from Fort Eustis, will not be able to finish the Little League schedule which runs through Sept. 4, as he will return to Fort Eustis within two weeks.

Four teams—Yankees, Dodgers, Tigers and Braves—make up the Little League at Fort Story, and play a scheduled four games each week through August with the semi-finals and finals set for early September. Commissioner for the league is Chief Warrant Officer Jack Smith.

SPEC. 4 BOWIE S. BROWN

Army Specialist Four Bowie S. Brown, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Brown, 216 Eighty-sixth St., Virginia Beach, Va., recently returned with his unit to its permanent location in Berlin after having completed annual infantry training in Wildflecken, West Germany.

Specialist Brown and other members of the 6th Infantry's Company D journeyed through Soviet-controlled East Germany to Wildflecken, where squad, platoon and company-level tactical maneuvers were conducted under simulated combat conditions. The training was designed to determine the combat readiness of the unit.

The Berlin Command, organized at the end of World War II, is an 81-square mile area in the southwest portion of the four-power city.

Brown, an automatic rifleman, entered the Army in March, 1958, and completed basic combat training at Fort Jackson, S.C. He arrived in Europe last August.

He is a 1957 graduate of Virginia Beach High School.

On August 3, 1942, Mildred Helen MacPee was commissioned a lieutenant in the Navy to become the first woman officer of that service, later heading the WAVES.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

It's That Time Again

Yes, the time is here again to think of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad, the volunteer organization that looks after the health and welfare of the citizens of this area 365 days out of the year and 24 hours every day.

Each August this fine group of young men seek the annual financial needs of the Rescue Squad to cover its operating expenses. No one connected with this group receives any pay for their time and labor.

The Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad is a busy organization. They report that they answered a total of 944 calls during the past year. They have put in more than 11,000 man hours, during the year and have driven some 24,000 miles in looking after their fellow citizens.

The Rescue Squad now asks your help in dollars and cents. The goal this year is $20,000 which takes care of the Squad's operating expense plus funds for replacement of equipment and vehicles.

Too much praise cannot be lavished on this fine volunteer organization for the work they perform. The Rescue Squad has saved many lives and their quick response to calls is amazing. These men are trained in the art of first aid and in many cases their work has been the difference between life and death.

Remember the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad this month with your check in any amount, large or small. They need your help, you may need theirs.

The Hospital Draws a Step Nearer

The Princess Anne Memorial Hospital Commission continues to progress toward the day that the hospital, itself, will become a reality. The latest development came to light this week with the approval of a site for the community project.

The site committee, after much study and deliberation, recommended the approval of a 15-acre tract of land that has been donated by Real Estate Developer John Aragona. The site is located in the Rosemont section of the county.

With the site location approved the really big job lies ahead in raising the necessary funds locally so that the hospital body may apply for the Hill-Burton federal grant. There is no question in the minds of all that the hospital is a must and that leaves the matter of financing squarely in the hands of the people of this area who stand to benefit from the project.

There is little doubt, in our opinion, that the people will rally to this most worthy cause. The hospital commission members have given much of their time and thought to the establishment of the hospital and many hours went into the final site selection. From now on the hospital project belongs to the people and the general public.

We believe the site selected by the commission is an excellent one. At the same time the generosity of Mr. Aragona should not be overlooked. The gift of this valuable real estate certainly gives the hospital project a big boost. Mr. Aragona deserves a genuine vote of thanks in this respect.

AMERICAN LITTLE LEAGUE NEWS

By NEELIE P. BILE

The beginning for one boy and his family was Saturday, May 2, when a kid just turned 10 was picked for an American Little League team. One season, three months of belonging, of team participation, has transformed a fairly retiring type into "one of the fellows" who feels "all are needed by each one—nothing is fair or good alone." From such stuff come the leaders of tomorrow, not just in athletics, but in all of living. We are grateful for the privilege of service, for truly, the more we give, the more we get. Thanks to the practical idealism which is Little League Baseball.

WE REMEMBER . . .
The first over the fence hit by Larry Mailles in the number one game of the season; Ken Calkley's two over in the same game; and Ken's striking out 16 of 20 men he faced in the Sports 1-0 win over the Rotarians.

Joey Potter's terrific record of shut-outs and good, steady hitting to make him head man in the batting average department; and Chris Hanson's many home runs and excellent job at 1st base; Peter Holland's near-professional work behind and at the plate.

Tommy McCormick's big night when his homer cleared the bases to account for 3 of the Cubs' 4 runs; Charlie Miller's 4 for 4 evening; and Steve Vito's smooth 10-0 win over the champions.

Bookie Bobby Godman's double in the Rotarians 10-5 win over the Tigers; and Bruce Hawes' home run in the same.

Jim McGuill's two victories for the Tigers; Mike Keville's big one over the center field fence; and Larry Powell's and Billy Newton's sweating-tight pitching with man Chuck Camera cheerfully doing his best at just about all positions.

Robberies in the outfield by rookie Bill Mayo and the brothers Entlinger; and the record double plays by the ever-plugging Tigers.

The umpires, God bless 'em, particularly the man in blue, DeLong Mills who didn't miss a game; and the shabbers . . . who out them baseball just wouldn't be American.

All this and much more we remember about 1959, the twentieth anniversary of Little League baseball. Many thanks for your reception of "Over the Fence." We're not saying goodbye . . . rather, say hello until next Spring.

The National Outlook

Prospect in the Steel Strike
By Ralph Boley

So much has been written about the steel strike that every newspaper reader is pretty well informed on the issues involved. There are, however, a few points left for consideration.

First, how long can the strike last without being seriously felt by other industries? This, of course, depends on inventory in the hands of other than steel companies. Data here leaves much to be desired. We have specific information on how much steel has been produced over a given period, but nothing more than a guess as to how much of that output has been used up. By subtracting the latter from the known production we get an estimate of steel inventory.

Inventory Unevenly Distributed. It is assumed that overall there was enough inventory for about eight weeks. The inventory, however, is not evenly distributed, and some industries will run short before that time. On the other hand, the automobile industry is said to have enough steel to carry it into the production of new models, scheduled for next September or October. It is safe to say, therefore, that the strike will have no really grave influence on business generally for at least another month, and until that happens it is not probable that the President will invoke the Taft-Hartley Act and appoint a fact-finding commission, which would mean that strikers must return to their jobs for an eighty-day cooling off period.

Second, the strike is proving a boon to steel imports. For the five months through May imports registered an excess of exports. The nature of these imports is important. By and large, items in which labor is an important element of cost are those having the most competitive advantage. This is because labor cost is lower in foreign steel companies. In products where labor costs are a relatively unimportant factor, American producers are not at such a great disadvantage.

Third, then, is one of the major reasons steel companies are so insistent that they have the right to determine working rules to a greater extent than at present. This is not a matter of erasing all labor's gains of the past decade, as Mr. McDonald says, but is simply to eliminate much of the feather bedding that has gradually been forced on the industry. In other words, it is a question of getting more production per dollar of wages. And to the extent this can be done, the savings can be paid in wages. That was management's offer which the union flatly rejected.

Fourth, this is the matter of company profits. As compared with the second quarter of last year all companies reveal large profit increases. As expected, the union made the most of this. Steelworker boss, David McDonald, interpreted the profits as proving that steel companies are "rolling in wealth."

Actually the profit picture indicates nothing of the kind. For months before the strike there was a feverish rush to build steel inventories. This kept companies operating at a high rate of capacity, which meant that profits would be up, if they had not increased under such conditions. No one would even consider making a further capital investment in the industry.

Higher profits do not mean that wages can be increased by any significant amount without prices being advanced. Some few companies might, adjust wages slightly without raising prices, but not the industry as a whole. The union, nevertheless, demands that the industry behave as a unit in regard to wage increases.

BASEBALL CHALLENGES OLD MAN WEATHER

Old Man Weather has held up time for the play recently but he hasn't held up the enthusiasm of the ballplayers. The Little League teams of the Village and their managers and coaches have kept the ball in the play and have been busy on make up of postponed games.

The Giants of the South Cub League set up a record and were in the lead for the first half of the season. Mike Williams, pitcher, who also plays third base, won five and lost one; Bobby Moody, pitcher, who plays short stop also, won two and lost one; Junior Scarper, catcher and short stop, Dick Knack, first base, Vinny Lociale, second base, Paul Niklas, left field and catcher, Terry Henslee, right field, Allen Johnson, center field, Tommy Bennett, out field, Bill Landolf, plays both in-field and out-field, Tommy Smith, out-field, and Buster Moffet, Carl Annino, Steve Clouthier, Randy Anderson, make up the Giants team which is sponsored by the L&S Tire Company. Manager-coach Chief S. Niklas is justly proud of his boys and states that he has a team of heavy hitters. Mike Williams, Junior Scarper, Paul Niklas and Bill Landolf hold a batting average of above .400, while Dick Knack and Bill Landolf are batting between .317 and .329. The team has put in some good practice work which brought it from the bottom of the ladder at the start of the season to the top in the first half of the season, having won eight games and lost four. The last game of the first half of the season furnished some real thrills for the grandstand when the Giants chalked up a final score of 12-1.

On August 13, 1944, the U.S. Eighth Fleet, under Vice Admiral H. K. Hewitt, landed troops in three areas east of Toulon in Southern France, bringing to a close that phase of WW II that had begun in North Africa.

William A. Wood III To Operate Esso Oceana Plant

William A. Wood III of Virginia Beach has signed an agreement with the Esso Standard Oil Company to operate their newly-built Oceana bulk plant. The appointment is effective at once according to announcement of C. P. Lowman, Esso's Norfolk District Manager.

The new Esso bulk plant is located on a three-acre site on State Route 615 in Oceana and was purchased by Esso last spring.

Construction was only recently completed. Facilities include five vertical storage tanks, a two-place steel loading rack and a 40x40 warehouse building are the other major installations. Product is received by transport truck from Esso's Norfolk water terminal at Sewella Point.

In addition to bulk storage of Esso Heating Oil, Kerosene, Vaseline, and Esso gasoline, Mr. Wood reports they will carry a complete line of Esso motor oils and greases, and other products. He will also stock and sell Atlas tires, batteries, and accessories.

"Through this arrangement with Esso, we will be able to provide the people of Princess Anne and adjacent areas with unsurpassed service and petroleum products," Wood stated. "Particularly, we plan to expand the solicitation and service of home heating oil accounts in this area," he continued. "We plan to put the Esso degree day system of automatic deliveries into effect with our heating oil customers and also to use the Esso budget plan for the added convenience of our customers, as well as sell and service Esso burners," he concluded.

William A. Wood III is a well-known resident of Virginia Beach. He attended Augusta Military Academy and later graduated from the University of Virginia. He is active in civic and community affairs in Virginia Beach. A director of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, he is also a member of the Virginia Beach Rotary Club.

Just prior to taking over the operation of the Esso plant at Oceana, Mr. Wood operated the Pure Oil Company Plant at Virginia Beach. He is a former salaried employee of Esso, having worked for them as Manager of their Norfolk Training Station for several years. Mr. Wade Kornevay, who has been in the petroleum business in Virginia Beach for many years, will be associated in business with Mr. Wood. Another associate will be William A. Wood IV, Young Wood, a 1958 graduate of Virginia Military Institute, only recently returned from a tour of military duty with the Army.

On-the-Job Study in Physics Offered by William & Mary

A co-operation plan of on-the-job study leading to a master's degree in physics has been arranged by the College of William and Mary and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for this fall. Approximately 25 physicists and engineers, selected on the basis of past high-level academic performance, will take part.

Two mornings each week, the participants will be released from their duties at the Langley Research Center of the NASA so that they may attend classes on the Williamsburg campus. Each will choose two courses a semester from the regular graduate offerings in the department of physics, thus obtaining in two years a total of 24 residence credits necessary for the degree. No summer courses will be required.

Thesis research, to be based on work done in connection with normal NASA projects, will be carried on at the Langley Center under the supervision of faculty members from the college.

The co-operation plan was worked out in accordance with the Government Employees Training Act of July, 1958. This act was designed to encourage qualified personnel to undertake study that might be of on-the-job benefit to them. It provides for released time at full remuneration and for payment by the federal government of all tuition and other expenses connected with the selected educational programs.

"The advantages to be derived by aeronautics and space-age researchers from graduate study in physics cannot be overemphasized," stated Mr. S. Walter Hixon, Jr., employee development officer at the NASA, when asked to comment on the cooperative arrangement. "A knowledge of pure physics is, indeed, a fundamental part of all engineering."

"We are convinced, moreover, that the information gained by our personnel from the program at William and Mary will help us to fulfill the objective of the NASA to develop research activities devoted to peaceful purposes for the benefit of all mankind."

Dr. Melvin A. Pittman, chairman of the department of physics at the college, pointed out that the NASA students would be required to meet the same standards, both of entrance and of performance, required of full-time participants in the graduate program.

"This is not a special program," he stated. "We are simply making existing facilities available to the NASA personnel."

"I might add," he concluded, "that, in my estimation, the Langley Center is one of the greatest research laboratories in the world, and we at the college are proud to be able to offer our cooperation."

Virginia Beach High School Registration Set

Principal James A. Johnson, Jr. announced today that new students who are transferring to Virginia Beach High School would register at the school during the week of August 17 through 21. Students in grades 8 through 12 will be accepted. The 7th grades will not be in the high school building this year.

Parents must accompany new students when they register. Students coming from schools outside the state of Virginia must have their birth certificate with them.

On August 3, 1942, Mildred Helen MacFee was commissioned a lieutenant in the Navy to become the first woman officer of that service, later heading the WAVES.

Fishing Records
Expected to Fall
In Boy Scout Derby

It is expected that previous fishing records will fall by the wayside when more than 200 Scouts and their fathers descend on Williams Beach on August 28, for a gigantic fishing derby.

Captain J. R. Hearn, chairman of the activities committee, Princess Anne-Virginia Beach Area, announced that the Fishing Derby held for the Boy Scouts last year in Virginia Beach, had been so successful, that it would be repeated again this year. The Captain said the merchants of the area were giving their full support to this Derby in the form of prizes. It is expected that 20-25 prizes will be presented to the winners at 2 p.m. on the afternoon of the Derby. First prize will be a bait casting rod and reel donated by Mr. Josh

Vaughan, operator of Williams Pier. Captain Hearn stated that registration for the event will take place from 9:30 to 10 a.m. August 28, the morning of the Derby. Fishing will be from 10 a.m. to noon. During the afternoon all catches will be weighed, measured, and prizes will be awarded.

All Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach are invited to participate in this Derby, as well as their fathers. The only thing needed is a fishing pole, and if any Scout can not dig up a pole, hand lines may be obtained on the pier. It is understood that the management of Williams Pier has ordered a new scale with the expectation of weighing the record breaking fish that will be caught.

On August 15, 1844, the U.S. Eighth Fleet, under Vice Admiral H. K. Hewitt, landed troops in three areas east of Toulon in Southern France, bringing to a close that phase of WW II that had begun in North Africa.

There are getting to be so many of those jobs that it is hard to remember them all. That is, until something interrupts the flow of power. And most often that something is a fallen tree branch on the distribution line.

That's why Verco pays over a million dollars a year to tree expert companies to guard against this number one cause of power stoppage.

Their men are masters at spotting branches that threaten your power supply. Masters, too, at trimming away the hazard while preserving tree beauty and symmetry.

So, if these experts ask permission to trim a tree on your property, please let them. Their work costs you nothing. And it may save you and your neighbors from being without your most vital home helper—electricity—one of those windy nights.

Six Injured In Crashes At Oceana

Second Collision Follows First at Intersection

OCEANA — A two-car collision that became a five-car collision at Oceana late Tuesday night resulted in injuries to six persons, one a Princess Anne County police officer who was investigating the accident.

Three gravely injured Navy men are in the Portsmouth Naval Hospital. The condition of Daniel Darchuk, AMCA (USN), 28, of the Oceana Naval Air Station, is listed as "critical." George W. Duke, 28, of the Oceana Naval Air Station, is said by hospital authorities to be in "serious" condition.

Injuries to Patrolman Robert Henry Lawrence of the Princess Anne Police were slight.

Others Injured

Also injured were William L. Teel, USN, of the Oceana Naval Air Station, driver of a car which collided with the police car, a Shore Patrol car, and the two cars which were involved in the original accident.

The driver of the Shore Patrol Car, Henry George Namett, 28, of Route 2, London Bridge, was not injured.

The original accident involved cars driven by Duke and Julie Marie Matthews of 313 18th Street, Virginia Beach. It occurred at the intersection of Route 615 and Front Street, Oceana, at 12:18 a.m.

Miss Matthews and J. L. Murald of VF-48, Oceana, a passenger in the Matthews car, were treated and released from the Virginia Beach hospital and Oceana NAS dispensary.

Second Crash

Moments after the arrival of the Princess Anne police car driven by Lawrence and the Shore Patrol car driven by Namett, the car driven by Teel, traveling north on Route 615 at what police say was "excessive speed," slammed into the Matthews car, the Duke car, the police car and the Shore Patrol car.

Both Duke, who had gotten out of his car after the collision with the Matthews car, and Darchuk, who was directing traffic around the accident, were struck.

Patrolman James H. Duncan of the Princess Anne police arrived at the scene shortly after the second crash and found Duke and Darchuk gravely injured and Teel "in pretty bad shape."

The Virginia Beach Rescue Squad also had arrived and took the injured to the Oceana dispensary and the Virginia Beach Hospital.

Darchuk, Teel and Duke later were transferred from Oceana to the Portsmouth Naval Hospital.

The Matthews car and Teel's car were described by Duncan as "total wrecks." The right side of the Shore Patrol car was smashed.

Bather at Beach Gets in Trouble, Rescued, Revived

For the second successive day the quick action of the guards and men of the Virginia Beach Rescue Squad and Fire Department saved the life of a swimmer who was in trouble in the surf.

A swimmer identified by the rescue squad as Marie Johnson, a Navy man stationed at the Norfolk Naval Base, was pulled from the surf off 21st Street yesterday at 10:35 a.m.

He was brought ashore by a lifeguard and given artificial respiration by the rescue squad and firemen. Later, rescue squad members Dr. W. Beasley, E. W. Smith, Charles Kiley and H. W. Kitchens carried Johnson to the Virginia Beach Hospital.

He was transferred from the hospital to the dispensary at the Oceana Air Base.

Recluse Attacked At Old Hotel Site

VIRGINIA BEACH — A 58-year-old resort resident was in critical condition today in Virginia Beach Hospital after a brutal beating Saturday in the old Fitzgerald Hotel.

Isaac Sawyer, whose home is on 19th St., was apparently gathering shingles on the second floor of the hotel, which is being torn down, when an assailant beat him over the head savagely with some blunt instrument and left him

Known around the resort as a recluse, Sawyer had been working with the firm demolishing the hotel since Dec. 1. No workmen were on the job early Saturday when Sawyer went to the place to collect shingles. A stack of shingles was found near where the attack occurred.

Sawyer apparently had lain unconscious for quite a while, police said, because of the amount of blood found. Sawyer recovered enough to stagger out to Atlantic Avenue. The proprietor of a near by grill between 22nd and 23rd streets saw him and called the Rescue Squad which took him to the hospital. The victim has been in a semi-conscious condition since then, and police so far have not been able to question him.

The elderly man was a well-known figure along Atlantic Avenue. He was always dressed in a dilapidated Army macinaw and a corduroy cap, wore his hair long and seldom shaved.

Oxygen Saves Child's Life

VIRGINIA BEACH — Three tanks of oxygen, administered by the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad, helped save the life of a six-month-old child, in a case credited with helping save the child's life.

The child, James Kenneth Richards, was taken to Norfolk General Hospital by ambulance after the oxygen was administered by Capt. R. R. Phillips. The infant's illness was diagnosed as pneumonia, Mr. and Mrs. McClesney and Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Snook, of Virginia Beach Trailer City, stated.

Another Norfolk area hospital diagnosed the illness as asthma the night before.

Local Rescue Squad Takes Two Honors At Convention

VB-PA Organization To Host Group In 1960

The Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad captured two first place awards at the Virginia State Association of Rescue Squads convention held at National Bridge, Va., September 18-20.

The first award was given in a first aid contest with 33 other Virginia Rescue Squads. Those who won the contest were Marvin Hines, Oak Wast, Jack Murray and William Weigler.

The other first place won by the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad was for having the best equipped ambulance shown at the convention.

The complete roster of 47 squads throughout the state during the past year have answered 16,800 calls and logged a total of over 210,000 miles.

Next year the state convention will be held in Bristol, Virginia. In 1960 the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne squad will be host at the resort for the other state groups.

Rescue Squad Finds Body of Drowned Man

Clayton C. Ray Victim Of Boat Accident In Inland Waterway

The body of a Norfolk Navy man was recovered late yesterday near the spot where he drowned in the Chesapeake and Albemarle Canal Sunday afternoon.

After continuous dragging operations Sunday night and yesterday, the body of Clayton C. Ray, BMI, of the 300 block of Eller Street, Benmorell, was found by members of the Virginia Beach Coast Guard Rescue Squad.

Princess Anne County police said the Navy took charge of the seaman's body.

Ray was drowned after a boat in which he and two other Navy men were riding overturned about 6 p.m. Sunday near Starvation Point.

The other occupants of the boat, Harold S. Thewrin, of the Norfolk Naval Station, and Manuel Schorrtowski, of the USS Curtinck, swam ashore.

Members of the Davis Corner Fire Department joined the Coast Guard in the search for the missing seaman.

Guest at Beach Is Revived by Rescue Squad

VIRGINIA BEACH — Joseph Iwanski, of Milwaukee, Wis., who is staying at the Driftwood Hotel at the beach, owes his life to the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad and beach firemen.

Last night about 9 o'clock the rescue squad was called for a rooming house transfer of Iwanski to the Virginia Beach Hospital. The doctor advised he had a "suspected" heart condition and asked the squad to administer oxygen.

Iwanski took two or three breaths of oxygen and had a complete heart failure. Squad members immediately applied artificial respiration and continued oxygen. Firemen were summoned to assist them.

They "lost" him "two or three" before finally reviving him. Taken to the hospital, he last was reported in "satisfactory" condition.

Blood Program, Rescue Squad Work Together

For the past few years the Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach Rescue Squad and the Red Cross Blood Program have worked together when possible—each realizing the vital importance of the other. The Rescue Squad has their annual drive every year in August and the Tidewater Regional Red Cross Bloodmobile visits Princess Anne County on Monday, August 20th. With Labor Day week-end just a few weeks away it is expedient that the quota is met at the Bloodmobile visit as there are many calls for blood during the weekend due to accidents of all kinds.

Wilton Anderson, Publicity Chairman for the Rescue Squad and Leo Houty of WBOF Radio Station have worked out a Blood Marathon for the next Blood drive. For three days preceding the visit there will be spot announcements on WBOF informing the public of the Marathon. Harry Doggett's Morning Show will conduct the Marathon on Monday, August 20th from 9 to 10:45 A. M. Persons wishing to pledge a pint of blood should call WBOF Radio Station, Virginia Beach 1217, during this morning show and their names will be read over the air. Princess Anne County's quota for this Bloodmobile visit is 100 pints and it is hoped that people will pledge that number during the Blood Marathon.

The Bloodmobile will be at the Community House, 18th and Arctic, Virginia Beach on Monday, August 20th from noon to six o'clock. Transportation is provided by Red Cross Motor Corps and the Rescue Squad. Anyone desiring transportation or any other information may call the Red Cross office, Virginia Beach 938.

Baby sitters will be at the Community House during the visit. Dr. James P. Charlton of Virginia Beach and Dr. Ira Hancock of Creeds will be the attending physicians. The Junior Chamber of Commerce of Virginia Beach and the Junior Civitan Club of Virginia Beach are co-sponsoring this visit.

A special plea for O negative and O positive and B negative and B positive blood types has been issued by Dr. C. Lydon Harrell of the Norfolk Blood Center.

Boy Saved By 'Mouth' Respiration

NORFOLK — Quick action by a member of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad saved a 12-year-old boy's life Sunday afternoon.

Joseph W. Franzese, 12, 23 1/2 Washington St., Portsmouth, N. H., was brought unconscious out of the water at the south end of Sandbridge beach at approximately 4:15 p.m.

I'm e d i t e application of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by Rescue Squad member Charles R. Terry, who happened to be on the beach fishing at the time, had already revived the boy by the time the Rescue Squad could be summoned.

Franzese was taken to Virginia Beach Hospital by the Rescue Squad, and there released for transfer to Maryview Hospital.

The mouth-to-mouth resuscitation technique has only recently received the approval of the American Medical Assn.

The MIXING BOWL.. IT'S Fun TO COOK

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food facts and folklore... the practical, down-to-earth recipes that show both points and pocketbooks, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucile Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

If you're given to shilly-shallying when confronted with a luncheon menu, don't go to Denmark! And stay away from the world famous restaurant such as Oskar Devildsen's in Copenhagen, for here they have a "smorrebrod" (open-faced sandwich) menu as long as your arm, one sandwich more tempting than the next. There are 177 fabulous fillings symmetrically arranged on 4 different kinds of bread spread with unrivaled Danish butter. This totals 708 decisions to make while the waiter taps his foot.

Local residents who enter the restaurant there usually have the foresight to study smorrebrod arrangements displayed behind glass in the windows. Two to six sandwiches makes a satisfying lunch. Even if you said senile-memle-miney-no you couldn't go wrong, for each sandwich is a winner.

Those who've enjoyed smorrebrod in Denmark still speak of the artful seasoning of these tastefully foods, yet when the recipes are studied, it is seen that seasoning usually boils down to a skillful use of black pepper. This tropical spice has been a favorite of the dander since the days of the Medieval Hansa League, when Danish merchants found pepper worth its weight in silver.

In modern Denmark, pepper is as much the No. 1 spice as it is in the United States. In their open-faced sandwiches, the Danes add this pungent spice to mix when they prepare it and they garnish the finished sandwich with pepper. This final touch could well be the "difference" in seasoning that intrigues so many smorrebrod lovers. Pepper is one of those spices used as liberally in Danish cooking as it is in other countries famous for the cuisine. It seems to bring out the best flavor in thousands of food combinations enjoyed by mankind everywhere.

Some typical Danish Sandwich recipes come to us from the American Spice Trade Association Kitchen — and this being Sandwich month I thought you'd enjoy trying some of their suggestions. There is, for instance, smoked salmon in two strips on bread, with scrambled eggs down the center. Or, "Shrimp-into Crowd" which parades tiny Danish shrimp in neat rows. Or a Veal Cucumber Sandwich, another one of the hundred Danish creations.

Once you get the "hang" of making open-faced sandwiches, you will find it easy to let your imagination soar, as the spice trade test kitchen did with grilled Crabmeat and Egg sandwich and open-faced Ham and Egg Sandwich. — And remember the pepper!

Shrimp-into Crowd
Cook shrimp until tender. Cut each shrimp in half, lengthwise. Sauté in butter or margarine seasoned with salt and ground black pepper. Place shrimp halves along both sides of buttered dark or white bread. Run a line of mayonnaise down center of slice. Garnish with paprika.

Veal-Cucumber
Place slices of roast veal on buttered dark or white bread. Season with salt and ground black pepper. Cut thin slices of cucumber in halves or quarters. Arrange cucumber slices in any desired pattern over veal. Cut thin strips, about 1/4-inch wide, around the outside of peeled cooked beets. Cut beet strips with fingers and place in center of cucumber arrangement.

Smoked Salmon-Scrambled Eggs
Place slices of smoked salmon along both sides of buttered dark or white bread. Spoon scrambled eggs down middle. Sprinkle with freshly ground black pepper. Garnish eggs with dried parsley flakes.

Grilled Crabmeat and Egg Sandwich
3 hard cooked eggs
6-ounce can crabmeat, flaked
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 teaspoon powdered dry mustard
1/16 teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
6 slices bread
6 slices tomato
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Salt to taste
Ground black pepper to taste
Peel eggs, chop the whites and 2 of the yolks saving the third for later use. Add crabmeat, salt, black pepper, mustard, garlic powder, lemon juice and mayonnaise. Spread over bread slices. Top each with a slice of tomato. Brush with melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle with salt and black pepper to taste. Place under broiler to grill 5 to 8 minutes with control set at broil position. Remove from broiler and sprinkle with remaining egg yolk put through a sieve. Yield: 6 servings.

Open-Faced Baked Ham and Egg Sandwich
1 cup butter or margarine
1/16 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 teaspoon powdered dry mustard
6 slices toasted bread
6 slices boiled or baked ham

Salt to taste
Ground black pepper to taste
Gather butter or margarine and blend with black pepper and mustard. Spread over one side of bread. Toast, turn and toast on other side. Top with slices boiled or baked ham, over which place a soft fried egg. Sprinkle egg with salt and black pepper to taste. Yield: 6 sandwiches.

Trussed Cheese Fingers
As a preamble to a party, toast bread strips on one side, then butter the other side and spread with grated Cheddar cheese. Sprinkle with salt and ground black pepper and egg under broiler until cheese melts. Ever as good with chilled tomato juice cocktails.
Don't these all sound luscious? Bye-Now—

NOTES FROM YOUR COUNTY AGENT

By E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

LISTEN TO YOUR COUNTY AGENT 12:30 MON. THURS. FRI. ON WBOF; 6:30 THURSDAYS, W.T.A.R.; 12:30 SATURDAY, WVAR

TIT FOR TAT

"Son, I'm downright ashamed of you," fussed Dad at his unambitious heir. "When Washington was your age he was a surveyor and working hard at his profession."

The boy looked up slyly, then grinned. "Yeah, I know, and when he was your age he was President of the United States."

COUNTY AGENT GOES TO COLLEGE

Next week I'll be at VPI attending the State Extension Service Conference. I hope that you won't have any problems this week, but if you do, please call the office and I'll get to you as soon as I can when I return.

After the conference I will be around for quite awhile. Two weeks ago I went to VPI to the Institute of Rural Affairs, with some of the farmers, and we had quite a good time. Attending with me were Jeb Ives, John Potter, Alva Malbone, George Waller, E. H. Harbison, Melvin Williams, and Vernon Watts.

Melvin Williams can really ride a horse up a mountain trail. That's all, brother.

Last week was sort of busy too. After catching up on the previous week's work, we settled down to attending a few meetings. On Wednesday, we held the Federal Milk Order meeting with the dairymen. On Thursday, it was my pleasure to welcome some 700 members to the Southern State Annual meeting and Friday I attended the monthly Agricultural Committee meeting of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce. In between these meetings, of course, a lot of visits were made, and a lot of correspondence taken care of.

DISTRICT DAIRY MEETINGS SET

A series of meetings for supervisors working in official dairy testing programs in Virginia has been planned for September.

Clayton Shank, DHIA supervisor for the Coastal Association, and I will attend the Petersburg meeting on September 1.

Discussions of recordkeeping, butterfat tests, milk meter inspections, testing equipment, and other topics of interest will be featured.

SHEEPMEN MUST WATCH FOR INTERNAL PARASITES

A carefully followed schedule of treatment is the best cure for internal parasites in sheep.

Sheepmen should assume that all sheep have some of the dozen or more internal parasites found in Virginia. Treating them with a parasite remedy is the best method of control. Pasture rotation will help, but won't do the job by itself.

Four treatments yearly are needed to control internal parasites in the average flock. The first treatment must be given in early spring before sheep go to permanent pasture. The second treatment should come in early July, or earlier if hot, rainy weather brings large parasite numbers. Late July or early August is about the right time for the third treatment. The fourth treatment comes in November about the time permanent pasture is finished and at least 30 days before lambing.

Lambs which have been kept in the flock past mid-June must be treated along with the ewes. Treat ewe lambs to be carried over for replacements once a month from the time they are weaned until frost. Late, poor feeder-type lambs may need one treatment a week to three weeks apart to straighten them out. Follow with a treatment every three to four weeks during the grazing season.

A free choice mixture of one part phenothiazine powder with 9 to 14 parts by weight of loose soil will help control internal parasites. Phenothiazine salt will not destroy worms, but its continued use will prevent a large percentage of the ova from hatching. This mixture can not take the place of individual treatments.

Phenothiazine controls more internal parasites in sheep than other known drugs. Phenothiazine contains lead arsenate or copper sulfate (blue-green) and nicotine sulfate should be used for one treatment per year, or if there is evidence of tapeworms.

CALF SALE SET FOR OCTOBER 1

Over 30,000 Virginia feeder calves will go on the auction block at the 1959 series of organized fall sales.

The sales, annually attract buyers from throughout the eastern United States and from several mid-western states.

Farmers in Princess Anne County will sell at the Petersburg sale on October 7. All feeder calves will come from herds which have had a negative test for tuberculosis and brucellosis within 12 months of the sale date. Heifers will be guaranteed open. All calves will be vaccinated for shipping fever and blocking and heifer calves vaccinated against bangs.

TIME TO PLAN ALFALFA SEEDING

Now is the time to begin planning for fall seeding of alfalfa.

Late summer seedings of alfalfa can be made in eastern Virginia up to the last of September.

Seed as early in the recommended seeding period as conditions permit, to give a longer time for seedling growth before winter. Make the seeding on a well prepared seedbed following a good rain to insure an adequate supply of moisture. Do not seed on a loose, fluffy, or dry seedbed.

Plan to use a deep, well drained soil on which alfalfa is adapted. Test to determine lime needs and fertility level. Choose the variety and have the seed and inoculant on hand.

Alfalfa requires lime. Make certain that the soil pH is 6.5 or above. If lime is needed, apply prior to seeding and work thoroughly into the soil.

Use from 1,000 to 1,200 pounds of 2-12-12 banded fertilizer or equivalent. Work it well into the soil during the preparation of the seedbed. Always inoculate the seed immediately before seeding and seed either 10 to 20 pounds of alfalfa with three to five pounds of orchard grass, or 15 to 25 pounds of alfalfa if seeded alone.

Varities recommended are certified Williamsburg, certified Atlantic, certified Buffalo (winter-resistant variety), certified Narragansett, Kansas common, and Oklahoma approved.

TAKE A GOOD LOOK AT WIRING MYSTERY

Do you often have to replace a fuse in your electric wiring system?

Are you limited in the number of appliances you can use at one time without blowing a fuse? Have you installed fuses of larger capacity to eliminate the fuse-blowing problem?

J. L. Calhoun, associate agricultural engineer at VPI, says if the answer is "Yes" to any of these questions, you'd better take a new look at your wiring system. The system may be inadequate, or perhaps some safety rules are being ignored.

Wiring system circuits are protected by fuses or circuit breakers, both of which are safety devices, Calhoun explains. When too much electricity flows in the circuit, they cut off the electricity before there is damage. When a circuit breaker trips, or when a fuse blows, it's a sign of trouble.

Don't try to correct the trouble with larger fuses or by tampering with fuses in any way to restore service. If, as the signs indicate, there is too much load on the circuit, the logical solution to the problem is to add more circuits to the wiring system.

More circuits are needed in many homes, Calhoun claims, because over the years more and more electrical appliances have been added. Wiring systems designed for adequate service years ago are no longer capable of bearing the load.

If you have trouble with blown fuses or tripped circuit breakers, consider expanding your wiring system by installing more circuits, Calhoun advises.

ATTIC FANS MAKE HOME COMFORTABLE

Attic fans may be the answer to the problem of making some Virginia homes more comfortable during the warm days of summer, says J. L. Calhoun, associate agricultural engineer at VPI.

This type of fan, mounted in the attic—as its name implies, lowers the temperature in the attic and brings cool outside air into other parts of the house to replace the hot, stuffy air.

It is not uncommon for temperatures to reach 125 degrees in attics on hot summer days. During the day, the sun beats down on the roof. The heat finds its way into the attic and temperature builds up. The heat then moves down into the living quarters. At night the house gets rid of its stored-up heat very slowly. As a result, its often after midnight before the home is cool enough for comfortable sleeping.

An attic fan is usually operated after sundown when the outside temperature is cool. For best results open the windows and doors in the rooms to be cooled and start the fan. Cool air is then drawn into the house and at the same time the hot air is blown out of the attic—of course the attic door must be left open while the fan is operating. The result is more comfortable conditions for reading, working, recreation, and sleeping.

Window fans are often designed to cool only a portion of the house. They do not rid the attic of hot air. But an attic fan cools the entire house—including the attic.

An attic fan can be installed in most homes—and there are many different sizes and types to choose from.

FALL ACP SIGN-UP NEARS COMPLETION

The two-week application period for fall cover crops and permanent pastures will end at 4:30 on Tuesday, August 4. Farmers may apply for cost-sharing ranging from $1.50/acre for rye to $2.50/acre for fertilizer if it is to be used. The winter cover should be seeded early enough to provide good ground cover through the late fall and winter months. This cover could be an important part of a pasture-feed program, since it can be pastured. However, the growth can not be harvested for hay, grain or silage next spring if it is to qualify for cost-sharing.

COX ESTIMATES 3-YEAR SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION AT $7,276,960

Board Told of Necessary New Facilities Just to Keep Pace

Princess Anne County School Superintendent Frank W. Cox told the County School Board Tuesday that the county must spend $7,276,960 during the next three years for additional school construction.

The value of all school property now in the county is $15,353,850. Cox told the board the $7,276,960 figure "may be a conservative estimate of our needs."

The pupil load increase in Princess Anne is expected to be exceeded only by Fairfax County's in the near future. About 2,500 new pupils pour into the Princess Anne system a year.

This is equal to the school population of Princess Anne High School or three 28-classroom elementary schools, Cox said.

This September, 18,000 pupils will be enrolled in Princess Anne, of whom about 3,300 are Negroes. The 2,500 yearly increase will be predominantly white students with about 200 of the estimated yearly total Negroes.

Cox said within three years the white students will need an additional five elementary schools, a secondary school and additions to two existing school buildings.

An additional Negro elementary school and new wings on two other Negro schools will be required.

The estimate of future new school needs came about because of a request by the state superintendent and the State Board of Education.

"Two years ago," Cox said, "the state requested us to project our needs for a five-year period. At that time we said Princess Anne needed to build five schools—three elementary and two secondary."

"Within two years we have already built four elementary schools. We expect to spend $5,250,000 in the five-year period and have spent $4,458,804 in the first two years."

The total Princess Anne school enrollment last year was 22,311. Annexation by Norfolk is expected to cut the pupil load this September to about 16,000. The original figure will be overtaken in a little more than two years, Cox said.

Bids were opened Tuesday for construction of a 10-classroom addition to the John B. Dey Elementary School. The addition is scheduled for completion next April 25.

The eight bids ranged from a high of $154,592 from the J. J. Smith Co. to a low of $123,977 from Conrad Brothers. The board deferred action on awarding the contract until Friday at 2 p.m. when bids on an addition to the Linkhorn Park School will be opened.

The annual school report was presented to the board. It shows that the average teacher salary last year was $5,621.35. The Negro average was $4,782.33 higher than the white teacher average—$5,347.35 to $5,065.02, because there is less turnover among the Negro teachers.

Vice President Arrives for Virginia Beach Visit

Vice President, Family Enjoying Vacation at Cavalier Club; Children Visit Seaside Park

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and his attractive family, guests of the Cavalier Club here for the past several days, are enjoying Virginia Beach beyond their fondest hopes, according to Sidney Banks, Cavalier owner and host to the Nixons.

The weather, except for a brief thunderstorm late Tuesday, has been ideal for the Nixon family that includes the Vice President, Mrs. Pat Nixon and daughters, Julie and Patricia.

The Vice President arrived in Virginia Beach late Monday afternoon to join his family at the Cavalier. Mrs. Nixon and the children came to Virginia Beach last week.

According to Banks, the Vice President expressed surprise at the size and beauty of Virginia Beach. Both the Vice President and Mrs. Nixon were highly complimentary of the members and their consideration of them at the Cavalier Beach Club.

Tuesday the Nixons spent most of the morning on the beach and the Vice President journeyed to the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club for a round of golf in the afternoon. The golf game was cut short by a brief thunderstorm.

In the Vice President's golfing foursome were Lou Shue, Cavalier professional, Gordon Shoemaker, general manager of the Cavalier, and Walter Lee, a local junior champion.

After dinner Tuesday night the Nixons, just like any typical American family, visited Seaside Amusement Park where the Nixon girls were able to go on most of the rides. The Vice President was kept busy shaking hands and signing autographs.

It is understood that Mrs. Nixon and the children are enjoying their Virginia Beach visit so much that they plan to return next summer, if not sooner.

The Nixons were paid a nice compliment by Banks when he said "The Vice President and his family are the nicest guests we have ever had." Considering the many guests Banks has hosted this is indeed a rare statement.

Banks also stated that he is expecting Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson and Mrs. Johnson down for a Virginia Beach holiday later in the season. And, another possible future guest is Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Banks added.

The Bank of Virginia Beach will enlarge its present headquarters building by adding an upper floor to the Pacific Avenue structure. Work on the addition is expected to begin momentarily, according to an announcement made Wednesday.

E. H. Church, president, said the board at a meeting last Thursday also authorized a stock dividend which will be payable Sept. 5 to shareholders of record Aug. 26.

The stock dividend, third for the 14-year-old institution, will consist of one share for each two shares now outstanding. A 1408.5 stock dividend was paid in 1955, following the first such declaration about four years earlier, when shareholdings were permitted to buy 50 per cent value stock (1408.5) then selling for $18 a share.

Church said the two actions illustrate the board's confidence in the bank's future. In his opinion, it is in the midst of its greatest season.

The bank, which had paid-in capital surplus and undivided profits of $150,000 when it opened

June 5, 1945, has paid out cash dividends totaling $185,500. It now has a capital of $300,000, a surplus of $300,000, and more than $40,000 in undivided profits.

Jimmy Palmer, Orchestra At Cavalier Beach Club

Jimmy Palmer and his orchestra will open August 21st at The Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club and will be featured through September 7th.

He retained his name of Jimmy "Swampy" Palmer in starting his career at the age of 15 as a dancer. While in high school he won the Pan Atlantic contest at a singing and started the show with his own sustaining radio show.

This versatile band leader plays the trumpet and has composed several songs which he has recorded. "Dancin' Shoes," "Soft Shoddy Cars," and "Dreams." He has recorded over 50 tunes with Mercury.

Virginia Beach Representative at Canadian Show to 'Sell' Resort

RICHMOND — Getting the Virginia story across to nearly three million Canadians will be up to 25 volunteers who will staff the Virginia Exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, sponsored by the Virginia Travel Council from August 26 through September 12.

Virginia Beach, long a popular destination with Canadians as the nearest warm saltwater beach to Canada, will be represented by Mrs. Julia Nelms of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Nelms, who served at last year's Exhibition, will be attired in Confederate costume on loan from "The Confederacy" and will distribute saltwater taffy in addition to thousands of folders during the 18 days of the show.

Now in its 81st year as the largest show of its kind in the world, the CNE covers 350 acres, with 14 miles of paved streets, with land, building and plant equipment valued at $50,000,000. Held annually for a period of 18 days in Toronto, it attracts visitors from all 10 of Canada's Provinces and the United States.

Recognizing the importance of the rich Canadian travel market to Virginia, the Council some seven years ago reserved exhibit space at the CNE. Since that time Canadian travel to Virginia has soared to over a quarter of a million visitors annually.

In shopping for the best travel bargains available, Canadians report that the twin advantages of year-round mild climate and the proximity of Virginia's attractions to one another give them the best "holiday" value for their time and money.

Twenty-one foreign governments will take part in the CNE this year, with Virginia, Florida and New York representing the United States. The Virginia Exhibit will feature costumed attendants, souvenirs and hundreds of thousands of folders on Virginia. The plexiglass exhibit will provide a background for a dozen or more large murals in color of Virginia attractions.

The traditional Canadian love of outdoor recreation is shown in thousands of inquiries about Virginia's saltwater beaches, national parks and forests, with interest high in the natural wonders situated in western Virginia. Other common ties historically with Virginia, the Canadian visitor is an eager candidate for tours of historic houses, battlefields and landmarks, with a better than average acquaintance with Virginia history.

according to Robert F. Nelson, Managing Director of the Virginia Travel Council.

Last year official statistics show there were 56 million crossings of the U. S.-Canadian border. Canadians as tourists came to spend $1 million of their dollars in the U. S. while traveling Americans were spending $300 of their cheques dollars in Canada.

Other Virginians who will step up this year's campaign to increase Canadian business to Virginia at the CNE include William B. Lillyman, Norfolk Chamber of Commerce; Thomas B. Shifflett, Colonial Williamsburg, Inc.; Jewel R. Edwards, Williamsburg Chamber of Commerce; Williamburg Barnes Best, The Jamestown Foundation, Williamsburg; Miss Patricia Clarke, Fredericksburg Chamber of Commerce; Fredericksburg; Richard Demorest, Winchester Chamber of Commerce.

Tunnel Bonds Show Promise Of Quick Sales

Top financiers, in a New York meeting Tuesday, gave a warm reception to the financing plan of the proposed Chesapeake Bay bridge-tunnel, when local representatives outlined the plan for the 210 million dollar engineering project.

Laelius J. Kellam, chairman of the Chesapeake Bay Ferry Commission, and James A. Abrams, representing the financial underwriters, were highly encouraged with the meeting.

"When dozens of investment officials from widely scattered points show up for a meeting like this in mid-August, they must be interested," Abrams said.

After the New York meeting Kellam left by plane for Chicago where a similar meeting will be held and Abrams headed for the West Coast and San Francisco for still another meeting with investors.

Officials were greatly encouraged at the result of the New York meeting since this meeting was felt to be most important. Previous meetings had been held in Richmond, Hartford and Boston.

Fashion Show Here August 26 Will Benefit Scholarship Fund

This scholarship fund is named for Judge Floyd E. Kellam, deceased, as a distinguished symbol of all our loved ones who are no longer with us.

All monies raised by Rose Hall will always be divided equally between Virginia Beach and Princess Anne High Schools. Any further schools that may be built under the same standards as these schools may be included.

The scholarships shall be awarded as voted by the members of each Senior class. However, a candidate must be approved by the faculty of their school as being worthy of a higher education and to be in need of the scholarship to obtain further education. The sole purpose of this scholarship fund is to help many of our boys and girls receive higher education.

It is a sincere hope that many church groups, clubs, organizations, businesses and individuals will join in raising or donating money to this scholarship fund. Their donations may be given to either high school or with any restrictions they may wish.

The trustee of this scholarship fund shall be announced at the Fashion Show. Each trustee should appoint a committee to work with him with the intention of keeping the scholarship fund active as long as there is a Virginia Beach and Princess Anne High School. In all matters the trustees judgement shall be final.

Elias Codd, Citizen Deluxe, Given New Honor by Army Recruiting Service

Elias Codd, well known Norfolk businessman and an extensive Princess Anne County property owner, has again been honored for his sale of United States Savings bonds.

The latest honor to come to this distinguished citizen is a certificate presented to him recently by the United States Army designating him (Codd) as an honorary recruiter.

The certificate awarded Codd in his famous delisessen on Princess Anne Road is signed by Maj. Gen. R. W. Lee, the adjutant general of the Army. Lt. Col. Gerald M. O'Neal, in charge of Army recruiting for Eastern Virginia, made the presentation to Codd.

Codd was honored for services to the recruiting branch of the Army through the year, particularly his generosity in making available one of his two display windows for promotional services.

Master Sgt. L. N. Almelch, who directs recruiting activities in this area, said only four such certificates previously had been awarded.

He credited Codd with interesting numerous young men in an Army career.

Codd, a native of Latvia, won distinction during World War II for war bond sales which, at the end of hostilities, amounted to approximately $3.5 million.

He has disposed of another million dollars worth of the national securities since then.

Another Honor for Top Bond Salesman

Still another honor has been bestowed on colorful Elias Codd, Norfolk's famous salesman and outstanding defense and savings bond salesman. Codd is shown above being presented a certificate of recognition in his efforts in helping the Army recruiting program in the Virginia Beach, Princess Anne County and Norfolk area. At left is Lt. Col. Gerald M. O'Neal, officer in charge of Army recruiting for Eastern Virginia, and M. Sgt. L. M. Almelch of the local recruiting office.

FORT STORY TELLINGSMAJOR R. W. ZWICKER

Major General Ralph W. Zwickler, commanding the Twentieth U.S. Army Corps, was "happy" with the training he observed being given personnel of Cleveland's 47th Transportation Battalion during his visit here Tuesday, August 11.

He likewise declared that he was "impressed with the high percentage who are getting their hands on things," meaning that training on the various types of equipment is effectively reaching most of the men in the battalion. The general visited the 367-man unit, commanded by Major Rowland E. Fletcher, of Walte Hill Road, in Willoughby, during the annual two-week summer encampment. The battalion was in the midst of a three-day field problem when General Zwickler arrived.

The general observed the bivouac and training areas, observing the officers and men working with DUKWs, the Army's water-borne cargo truck, and loading and unloading cargo at a beachhead and the Hickory Knoll, a World War II Liberty Ship.

Accompanying him was Colonel Theodore R. Kimpson, the deputy Corps commander, and their aides. The general's party was met at Oceana, Va., about 10 miles from Fort Story, and escorted to the post, arriving in the 47th area at 10:30 a.m.

The inspecting party toured the beach area, then traveled by two VIF DUKWs to the Hickory Knoll to observe operations on board the ship. Following this brief, hour-long trip the group attended a reception at the post. Clarence E. Curtis, who commands the 2385th Transportation Terminal Command "C" in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The 47th Terminal Battalion meets every Monday night at Schieler's USAR Training Center, 11410 Broadway Ave., Garfield Heights, with the exception of one company.

The 454th Transportation Company (DUKW), under the command of Captain Robert F. Norberg, of Celina, Ohio, meets at St. Marys, with the personnel coming from the entire Dayton-Lima area.

Commanding the 13th battalion's other DUKW company is Captain Paul P. Robinson, of 25588 Garden Road, Bedford, Ohio. On July 23, he was awarded the Soldier's Medal for courageously aiding in the rescue of approximately 150 people during last spring's flood which hit Eastlake, Valley View, Cuyahoga Heights and Garfield Heights.

A second captain awarded the Soldier's Medal at the same time for the same feat was Neville D. McNeerney, who lives at 1472 S. Noble Rd., Cleveland Heights. A regular Army officer serving as advisor to the 47th, McNeerney was in the ranks for five years, reaching the grade of sergeant first class before being commissioned 10 years ago.

The 196th Transportation Company (Terminal Service), which operates the beachhead, loading and unloading vessels and DUKWs, is commanded by First Lieutenant Peter H. Cashey, 2464 Traymore Rd., Cleveland 18.

Another First Lieutenant, John M. Caplice, of 323 Riverdale Dr., Rocky River, commands the battalion headquarters detachment, as well as being the battalion adjutant.

Making up the remainder of Major Fletcher's staff are Major Roy W. Rhydderch, 4267 W. 215th St., Cleveland 26, the battalion executive officer, Major Frank G. Spillier, 22506 Maple Dr., also Cleveland 26, the battalion operations officer and a third Cleveland West Sider, Captain Walter O. Plotz, of 4586 Rocky River Dr., Cleveland 35, battalion supply officer.

Captain Arthur D. Polen, 7106 Forest Ave., Parma, is the unit's assistant operations officer, with Master Sergeant Richard A. Bury, 7801 Balmade Ave., Cleveland 2, serving as sergeant major. Attached to the battalion for the summer training was the 76th BARC Platoon, of Surgeon Bay Wisconsin, commanded by First Lieutenant Warren E. Macdick. The BARC is the Army's new 100-ton, water-borne personnel and heavy cargo carrier.

The 47th, which was a Harbor Craft Battalion until 1954, will remain from its third annual summer encampment at Fort Story by special Baltimore and Ohio Pullman train, arriving at Cleveland's Union Terminal early Sunday morning.

CHINESE ARMY OFFICERS VISIT FORT STORY

Thirty-three officers of the Chinese National Army from Peking recently when they visited the U.S. Army Transportation Corps post as a part of their training course being given at Fort Story, the TC Training Center.

Included in the group of foreign officers were 17 colonels, 13 lieutenant colonels, and three majors, all of whom are attending the Transportation Officers Associate course at the Transportation Training Center. Each of the Chinese officers will return to Taiwan shortly and resume duties as heads of the various levels of the Chinese Nationalist Army transportation setup.

Escorting the Chinese officer group was Capt. John Capen, of the Transportation School, Ft. Eustis. Capt. Don C. Huddy, Information Services Officer of Fort Story was the escort officer for the visitors on their tour of Fort Story. Lt. Col. L. G. Hanna, Story ACofS, briefed the Taiwan officers upon their arrival at Story.

While at Fort Story, the Chinese officers were conducted on a tour of the installation, which included a briefing and inspection of the Landing Craft Retriever, orientation and discussion of the BARC (Sarge, Amphibious Resupply Cargo), the behemoth cargo-carrying swimming truck of the Transportation Corps and the visit to the cargo training area and the ship, where active duty and reserve force troops are trained as soldier-sevellers and cargo-handling specialists.

Following the tour of the Fort Story facilities, the Chinese officers were honored at a luncheon held at the Story Officer's Open Mess.

STORY HEADQUARTERS ON MANEUVERS

The U.S. Army 4th Transportation Command, a post complement organization at Fort Story, today was alerted to move out for a seven-day field maneuver at an undisclosed destination.

Movement orders were received by Col. Arthur L. Baker, Commanding Officer of Fort Story, and 4th TTC "C" Commander, directing the movement of the unit to the maneuver area by air lift from Langley AFB, with the advance elements departing on Wednesday and the main body to follow on Thursday.

During the absence of the 4th Terminal Command from Fort

Civil Service Examination Is Announced

In order to establish an eligible register for filling future vacancies as water tender, $2.19 an hour, at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard, a civil service examination has been announced.

Jesse S. Howell, acting executive secretary, said that no written test would be required, but that applicants would be rated on the basis of experience as claimed in their applications.

Applicants must have had at least one year of experience in the use of tools and operation of the usual types of boilers and fireroom auxiliaries. In addition, Howell said, they must be capable of making minor repairs to fireroom equipment of all kinds and should be able to instruct firemen in their duties.

Application Form 57 may be secured from the shipyard and the Virginia State Employment Service, or applicants may apply at any post office for applications or for information as to where the forms may be obtained. Applications may be filed until further notice, Howell added.

How Well Do You Know Your America?

Towering 570 feet high, the San Jacinto monument, Southeast of Houston, Texas, commemorates the great battle in Texas' struggle for freedom.

The war for Texas independence began in 1835 at Goliad, where Texans won their first battle and challenged Mexican Military Authorities. A chain of battles ensued until Texas officially declared her independence from Mexico and adopted a constitution on March 2, 1836, at Washington-on-the-Brasses, appointing Sam Houston as Commander-in-Chief of the Army.

There were several battles, including the slaughter of the defenders of the Alamo and some 300 Texans at Goliad before the final battle was won at the Battle of San Jacinto, April 21, 1836.

The Mexican General, Santa Anna, was taken prisoner during this engagement and signed the treaty which launched the Republic of Texas.

Faced with Texas' fossilized bluff limestone, the San Jacinto monument was built between 1936 and 1939.

7 Do's Assure Ground Beef Perfection

Ground beef is probably America's most popular meat. We use it so much we sometimes forget there are a few rules to remember about it. I have found these 7 Do's for Ground Beef to be most helpful in our Nancy Carter Kitchen.

Ground Beef Do's

1. Do choose ground beef to suit your family's preference. In most supermarkets ground beef is made from an exact formula for blending fine lean cuts of beef with just the right amount of fat for flavor and juiciness. Or, choose beef chuck, stew meat, round steak or any other beef cut you wish and have it ground to order.
2. Do buy an extra quantity, season and shape into patties. Place freezer paper between patties then wrap, seal, and freeze them for emergency meals.
3. Do store ground beef in the coldest part of the refrigerator.
4. Do use ground beef as soon as possible—preferably the day of purchase or no later than the following day.
5. Do use moderate heat when cooking ground beef.
6. Do shape patties evenly—as thick at the edge as in the center—they'll cook more evenly.
7. Do handle the mixing of patties or meat loaves lightly—the less handling the more tender the meat.

Free Recipe Folder

I've put 28 of my favorite ground beef recipes into a special folder. If you'd like a free copy, write: Nancy Carter, P. O. Box 4350, Atlanta, Ga., and I'll send it. Or, if you have any special meat problems, please let me know. I'll try to help you.

For summertime easy preparation but downright good eating here is my favorite skillet main dish. Serve it with a green salad and fresh fruit and you've a meal almost without work.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

Veterans of World War I, World War II or the Korean conflict period who are permanently and totally disabled from reasons not traceable to service—who are credited with 90 days or more service, unless they were discharged sooner for line-of-duty disability, and were discharged under other than dishonorable conditions are eligible for Veterans Administration pension payments. Lionel F. Doss, Officer-in-Charge, Norfolk, Veterans Administration Office said.

Mr. Doss said many inquiries have been received at his office in recent weeks about the requirements for pension and for compensation payments. The difference between these two, according to Mr. Doss is that pension payments are for nonservice-connected disabilities, compensation for service-connected.

Pensions are payable by VA only if the veteran who is otherwise eligible has income from other sources that does not exceed $1,400 a year if he is unmarried. If he is married or has a minor child, the limitation is $2,700.

The monthly rate of pension payment is $66.15. After a veteran has received pension payments continuously for a period of 10 years, or when he reaches 65 years of age, the monthly payments are increased to $78.75.

If a veteran entitled to receive pension becomes blind or is so helpless as to require the regular aid and attendance of another person to help him, he may be eligible to receive monthly payments of $135.45.

Veterans may receive information or help in applying for pension or compensation payments from any VA office. The Norfolk VA office is located in Room 217, Post Office Bldg.

He is a student at the University of Virginia. While aboard the Randolph, he received practical "at sea" experience in seamanship, navigation, engineering and gunnery to help prepare him for a commission in the Naval service upon graduation from college.

C. G. Academy Exams Slated For Feb. 23, 24

Today Congressman Thomas N. Downing announced that the competitive examination for entrance to the U.S. Coast Guard Academy will be held nationwide on February 23 and 24, 1960. These examinations will be given in 113 cities.

Congressman Downing emphasized the opportunity offered young men who choose this four-year course which leads to a commission as a career officer in America's oldest sea-going service and a Bachelor of Science degree.

"There are no appointments or geographical quotas for entrance to the Coast Guard Academy," he said, "I urge all qualified young men who are interested in this worthwhile profession to write for details and application as soon as possible to Coast Guard Headquarters in Washington, D.C. Applications must be postmarked on or before January 10."

A candidate for the next examination for the Coast Guard Academy must be single, must have reached his 17th but not his 22nd birthday by July 1, 1960 and must be in excellent physical condition. A high school diploma is the minimum educational requirement, although high school seniors assured of being graduated by June 30 are eligible to take the examination if they will have at least 15 credits by that time. All applicants must have three units of English, two of Algebra and one in Plane Geometry by graduation.

If all of the 2,000,000 pounds of U.S. naval stores on the Navy's newest aircraft carrier USS Independence, was 1/2 inch size, it would extend from New York to San Francisco.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

Tunnel Financing Well Received

Then reports of the New York meeting Tuesday of which five officials of the proposed Chesapeake Bay bridge-tunnel project outlined the financing plan and other details involved in the giant 210 million dollar program are extremely encouraging. The New York meeting was one of a series of such meetings which have been arranged in various cities throughout the country to tell large investors about the bridge-tunnel project.

Area officials had previously felt that the success of the New York meeting would have a direct bearing on the sale of the bonds. All reports from New York indicate that a very successful meeting was held there on Tuesday.

Lucius Kellam, chairman of the Chesapeake Bay Ferry Commission, was in New York for the meeting and is presently in Chicago for a similar gathering of large investors.

One of the members of the underwriter's group said "when dozens of investors from scattered places come to a meeting of this type in mid-August as they have for the bridge-tunnel story then you know they are interested."

All signs point to success in this gigantic financial undertaking. We believe that in about four years the bridge-tunnel from our shore to the Eastern Shore will be a reality and with that development our area should experience the greatest growth and prosperity in its long history.

Religion Showing Growth

When this nation was in the pangs of birth, it proclaimed its faith in God and has continued that faith ever since. Under it, we have prospered and grown strong and steadily, throughout the years there have been reaffirmations of this faith, as witnessed by adoption of the motto, "In God We Trust," and inclusion of the words "Under God" in the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

In the republic's early years, barely more than a tenth of its citizens had a religious affiliation, whereas today 60 per cent are church members. Statistics also show that half the adult population attends worship services regularly. Thus, it is clear we have come a long way in less than two centuries.

We are reminded by the nationwide Religion in American Life observance that there remains room for even more spiritual growth. If we are to retain what God has bestowed on us in years past and add to our prosperity and strength, we must take to heart the Religion in American Life call to "Find the strength for your life . . . worship together this week."

It is just as important to remember today, as our ancestors remembered in past generations, that "where the spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty." Liberty is the nation's cornerstone. When it goes, all else worthwhile goes. To keep it, and the things that flow from it, we must remain close to God.

Demand for Homes Still Setting brisk Pace

The demand for homes has increased more in the past year than for any other major item, and there is a growing feeling that now is a good time to buy a house, David Miller, president of the Virginia Beach Board of Realtors, declared today.

He made these statements on the basis of the latest nationwide survey of consumer buying intentions by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center.

"The significant growth indicated by the survey in the number of people who are concentrating their buying plans on homes rather than other durable goods shows that the public is increasingly aware of the importance and value of home ownership," Mr. Miller said.

More people intend to buy homes in the near future than at any time in the last six years, according to the survey. Long range home buying plans, disclosed in the survey, bolster predictions of an active housing demand throughout the next five years.

Mr. Miller said the 21 Realtors of Virginia Beach reported that the situation in this area is similar to the rest of the country, as indicated by the University of Michigan findings. "There is a strong market in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County for the good quality homes being sold here," he declared. Only members of the Virginia Beach Board of Realtors and thus of the National Association of Real Estate Boards may use the designation Realtor which is registered in the U.S. Patent Office.

"More and more young couples are buying a home at the start of their lives together, while many married people are looking for larger homes to accommodate their growing families," he explained.

Mr. Miller pointed out that the national survey showed a growing number of people believe that prices are expected to increase somewhat and are therefore planning to take advantage of the present market to buy now.

He added that recent indications of a survey of the mortgage market by NARBE that interest rates may continue to creep up should be a factor in the decision of families to purchase a home now. Good advice on mortgage terms, comparative rates, and money sources may be obtained from the Realtors in Virginia Beach.

The long range trend of real estate values has been upward in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County and with population growth and other factors, this is expected to continue," Mr. Miller said.

"Right now there are many good values offered by local Realtors particularly in existing homes which are attracting more and more interest because of their larger room sizes, landscaping, established neighborhoods, and other factors."

"According to the University of Michigan survey there has been a significant growth (from 26 to 42 per cent of the representative consumers interviewed) in the percentage of people who believe that now is a good time to buy a house," Mr. Miller said.

"And in the last 18 months the percentage of people who think the purchase should be made now because they believe good buys are available has grown also. So has the percentage of people who believe prices will remain on the level," Mr. Miller reported, adding: "There is a large backlog of unsatisfied housing need."

The Realtor executive predicted a bright outlook for the home market on the basis of local conditions and the survey's conclusion that "most significant is the fact that among families with incomes of $7,500 or more, about 38 per cent are thinking of moving within the next five years. Most of these families already are home owners, but want a bigger, or more modern house, or one in a more desirable location; only a small minority are older people who want a smaller or less expensive home."

Mr. Castles will direct a force of 18 crew leaders and 232 census takers in 22 counties in south central and southeastern Virginia. Counties in which Mr. Castles will supervise the farm census this fall include:

Anita, Appomattox, Brunswick, Buchanan, Campbell, Charles City, Charlotte, Chesterfield, Cumberland, Dinwiddie, Fluvanna, Goochland, Greensville, Halifax, Henrico, Isle of Wight, James City, Lunenburg, Mecklenburg, Nansemond, New Kent, Norfolk, Nottingham, Pittsylvania, Powhatan, Prince Edward, Prince George, Princess Anne, Southampton, Surry, Spotsylvania and York.

Mr. Castles will enter on duty on September 14 and receive several days of training which will cover administrative procedures and other duties and responsibilities connected with the job. He will be responsible for recruiting the crew leaders who will enter on duty on October 19. The crew leaders will in turn recruit the census takers who will enter on duty on November 11.

The survey points out that home buying intentions are higher now than in 1954 and 1955 when housing demand was at one of its post war peaks," Mr. Miller reported, adding: "There is a large backlog of unsatisfied housing need."

The National Outlook

Is Consumer Credit Too High?
By Ralph Robey

The rapid increase in installment buying, an established important aspect of our economic system, has been reaching new all time highs. This poses a question: Is our credit system getting out of hand and becoming a threat to the business trend?

First, get the total perspective. On June 30, latest data available, the aggregate of all consumer credit was $46.7 billion. Of this, a little over three quarters was installment credit, some 43 percent or $15.4 billion of which was automobile paper.

Such aggregates by themselves mean comparative little to praise them it is necessary they be related to other figures. The particular figure most useful in this regard is called disposable income and refers to personal income less taxes. This data is published quarterly, the latest being for the second quarter of 1958. In 1958 the June figure was $100.4 billion, or 32 per cent of spendable income; this year it is just short of 14 per cent, a fairly significant increase.

Another approach is to figure the total of credit repaid in relation to the amount extended. For 1958 the amount repaid was a little more than the amount extended, the first time that had happened for many years, and is accounted for because 1958 was a poor automobile sales year, we had been in a recession in much of 1957, and the public was still uncertain of the upturn. In January and February of this year repayments exceeded extensions, which is fairly normal. But since then the trend has been reversed, and for the first six months extensions have exceeded repayments by $1.9 billion.

One final preliminary comparison: in 1955 consumer credit jumped by $6.8 billion, of which $3.7 billion was on automobile paper.

That year terms of installment credit were eased materially with, in the case of automobile purchases, maturities increased to thirty six months, and installment credit repayments were $5.4 billion less than extension. Total consumer credit that year was 14.1 percent of personal spendable income, or just a fraction higher than now.

Some conclusions: Figures show that we are no worse off than we were in 1955—when we experienced no difficulty, and there is no evidence that the high credit level was a contributing factor to the recession which started in 1957.

Installment loans, like other loans, are good or bad depending on the care of the credit analysis upon which they are based. This is another way of saying that the right of repossession is not too important. Of course it limits the possibility of loss, and is an incentive for the borrower to keep up his payments, but credit should not be extended on the expectation of repossession. Today the credit analysis underlying consumer loans is of high quality, and the rate of loss is small.

From one point of view it is true that installment credit represents 'stealing' from future buying, but basically this is true of all credit. There is no reason for criticism is justified only when too much credit is extended, or when loans are given without adequate analysis. Neither of these conditions prevails today.

Finally, although the total of consumer credit is at an all time high, and is rapidly rising, there appears to be no basis for concern. If collections start to get difficult, the situation would be different, but there is no indication that we are moving into such a period.

When the Boy Scouts of the Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County gather for their annual fishing derby at Williams Steel Pier on August 26, their catches will be judged by members of the world famous National Surf Casting Team.

Dalbey, who is stationed at the Naval Air Station at Oceana, and is the chairman of the committee arranging this event, announced today that members of the National Surf Casting Team had volunteered their services and that they would act as judges and be on hand to give free fishing advice to these junior anglers.

The fishing derby will be open to all Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts in the Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County and is expected that more than 200 boys will vie for the prizes. Fishing will begin at 9:00 a.m. and will continue till 2:00 p.m. at which time the judges will award the prizes.

Commander Dalbey also said that due to the cooperation of the business men in this area there would be at least 25 prizes to award these Junior Fishermen.

Beach Council Has Light Meet

Committee appointments and building matters consumed much of the time at the Virginia Beach City Council meeting last Monday.

Large Shopping Center To Be Built at Hilltop

Hilltop Enterprises, Inc., announced plans today to build a million dollar-plus shopping center on Larkin Road near Virginia Beach.

The organization revealed its plans to begin construction late this year, possibly in October, through Harry A. Shook, vice president of S. L. Nushbaum & Co., Inc., realty firm which is handling lease arrangements.

Cost estimates range between $1.2 and $1.5 million.

Plans have been prepared by Bernard B. Spiegel, Norfolk architect, and Gilbane Building Co. of Providence, R. I., has been secured to build the center. Gilbane, one of the country's largest construction firms, is building the Maritime Tower Building and the Medical Tower in Norfolk. S. L. Nushbaum & Co. is leasing agents for both projects.

The Hilltop Shopping Center will be the first of its kind in the area in which 35,000 persons live. City and county planning officials, backed up by estimates of public utility concerns, expect an increase of 10,000 to 13,000 within the next five years.

The 40-acre site has 1,500 feet frontage on Larkin Road, 500 feet on Virginia Beach Boulevard and a 40-foot easement to Great Neck Road, which connects the two main thoroughfares.

The Hilltop Shopping Center will contain 1,000,000 square feet of floor space and approximately 80 per cent of the tenants will be national firms.

A second section will be undertaken later, it was announced. The Alsage Realty Co. of Petersburg is working jointly with the agents.

ARAGONA VILLAGE CIVIC LEAGUE MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Several teams have been organized and are already showing encouraging results in the drive for new members for the Aragona Village Civic League, under the able leadership of Mr. Joe McDaniels, membership chairman. A prize will be awarded to the person obtaining the greatest number of new members over six, in addition to several other prizes. Membership fee for each family is $3.00 per annum. The membership drive contest will close August 23 but there is no time limit to join the League. All residents and home owners of the Village are invited to join.

SCHOOL DAYS WILL SOON BE HERE

A sure sign that the children in the Village have been enjoying their vacation is to hear such phrases, "I'll be glad when school starts," or "This has been the longest vacation we've ever had," etc. Aragona Village, as a community, has sponsored many interesting and enjoyable activities for the children, especially those in the groups between 8 and 12 years of age and 13 through 18. There's been fun for all and school which is scheduled to open soon will find a happy group of youngsters ready for the grand early in September. Definite date of opening will be announced soon.

TEENAGE DANCES TO CONTINUE

The Teenage Dance held Friday evening, August 14, at the Aragona Elementary School, was attended by a large group of young folk who seemed to fully enjoy the music and fun. The dances will continue to be held each week throughout the vacation season, and it is quite possible arrangements may be made for a winter season. There will be a "Bermuda Hop" held on Friday evening, August 21, from 7:30 to 10:30, under the supervision of Mr. Carlo As-vedo. Bermuda shorts or Capri pants may be worn if desired. Refreshments will be sold. It is urged that those planning to file applications for membership in the County Recreation Youth Association present their applications this Friday evening.

BOWLING TEAMS ARE BEING ORGANIZED

There are several bowling teams being organized in the Village, and bowling enthusiasts will be happy to learn that there will be a grand opening season of the Thunderbird Bowling Lanes in Virginia Beach, according to announcement made by Mr. Joe Phelps at the recent meeting of the Civic League.

CIVIC LEAGUE MEETINGS HOLD MANY SURPRISES

In addition to the ordinary run of subjects usually discussed and resolved at Civic League Meetings, the Aragona Civic League very often furnish genuinely interesting talks by visiting guests. Mr. David Berand, Food Consultant of Price's, in Norfolk, gave a talk on food care for freezer storage. This proved surprising as well as interesting and enlightening because there are many changes which take place in the food we consume when consigned to the home freezer. Mr. Berand's talk even had the husbands asking questions. Price's presented a door prize for the meeting and this was a very useful and practical gift which was a Westinghouse electric fry pan which was won by Mr. W. L. Engle, Jr., of 1444 Hopwood Lane.

POXY TEAM TAKES TIME OUT FOR CELEBRATION

Mr. John Lewis, Manager-Coch of the following young poxy league players, announced that his team would take time out for a real celebration and enjoy a wienie roast, and were inviting their young girl acquaintances to join them: Bobby Brindley, Jerry Enginger, Rod Giesman, Jimmy Green, Ronnie Greer, Butch Stamm, Jimmy Stanch, Carl Tersekert, Bill Turner, Jimmy Walker, Glen Withrow, Donny Houpp, Leo Salch, Rock Richard and Mike Shirley.

MIDGET TOURNAMENT FILLED WITH THRILLS

The Larason Cardinals, sponsored by Larason Realty and Insurance Corporations, romped through a thrilling game on Tuesday, August 11, defeating the Universal Mobins with a score of 15 to 3 in the first game of the Midget Tournament. In their second game, August 12, the Cardinals rolled on to their second straight tournament victory by defeating the Woodstock team 10 to 2. Wiv Luddy pitched a three-hit game and fanned 15 men in going the full six innings. In the third game, Friday, August 14, the Cardinals upset the favored Kempville Cardinals, 6 to 1. Buster O'Brien pitched a no-hit game but his broken thumb didn't seem to add any burden to his piteer. Wiv Luddy knocked in the deciding runs with the bases loaded. Richard Spence hit a three run homer. First-baseman Phillip Lewis completed several fine plays and gave an exhibition of real ball-playing, all of which added up to a score of 6 to 1 and the team all went home in a happy mood. The Kempville Colts played the Kempville Cardinals on Monday evening, August 21, and the winner of this game will play the Larason Cardinals on Tuesday evening. There will be several trophies awarded the winning teams in this tournament. Don't miss these games—they're going to top off this tournament play in good style.

Boatbuilder Applications Being Received

Applications are being received at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard for boatbuilder, according to an announcement by Jesse S. Howell, acting executive secretary of the Board of Civil Service Examiners there.

There are no immediate vacancies, Howell said, but applications will be entered on an eligible register for the purpose of making future calls for employment. Rate of pay for the position is $2.52 an hour.

Duties of a boatbuilder are to build, repair and modify wooden boats used aboard ship or in waterfront operations. In order to qualify, applicants must have completed a four-year apprenticeship in the trade or have had four years of practical experience in the trade sufficient in content and progressive acquisition of trade skills to be the substantial equivalent of a completed apprenticeship.

Howell pointed out that experience as carpenter, joiner, shipwright or other woodworking trades would not qualify persons as boatbuilder.

Applications will be accepted until further notice. Forms may be secured at the shipyard or persons may apply at any post office for applications or for information as to where the forms may be obtained.

W. T. Cooke School Sets Registration Set for Aug. 24-28

All new students entering W. T. Cooke School, grades 1-7, are asked to register at the school during the week of August 24-28 between 9:30 a.m. and noon.

Parents must present a birth certificate for verification of age. To be eligible for the first grade, a child must be six years of age on or before October 1, 1959.

Children transferring from other schools are asked to bring report cards or transfer papers.

Summer Pastry Ideas

Here is a recipe for wonderful, tender pastry that can be made quickly and easily into perfectly shaped tart and pie shells. Use it in preparing a wide assortment of mouth watering summer desserts for your family and friends.

No-Roll Pastry Tart Shell
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup lard or shortening
3 tablespoons milk

Sift dry ingredients into medium bowl. Combine lard and milk in measuring cup. Whip with fork and pour all at once over flour mixture. Mix with fork until completely dampened. Drop pastry into 8 medium tart pans. Press evenly and firmly with fingers to line bottom of pan; then press dough up to line sides and partly cover rim. Be sure dough is pressed to uniform thickness. To flute, pinch dough lightly with fingers. Do not use a high fluted edge. Prick bottom and sides. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool; then remove carefully before filling. Fill shells with prepared pie filling mix, preserves, or sweetened fresh fruit, topped with whipped cream.

For Single Crust—4 or 8-inch Pastry Shell: Use 1 1/2 cups flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 3/4 cup lard or shortening and 3 tablespoons cold milk. Sift dry ingredients directly into pie pan. Combine ingredients and press dough into pan as directed for No-Roll Tart Shell. Prick entire surface of pastry; bake in hot oven (425° F.) 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool before filling.

Fresh Strawberry Pie
1 quart strawberries
1/2 cup sugar
4 tablespoons corn starch
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup water
1 baked 9-inch No-Roll Pastry Shell
3/4 cup heavy cream, whipped

Wash, drain and hull strawberries, cut in half. Combine sugar, corn starch and salt in top of double boiler. Gradually add water, mixing until smooth. Add strawberries and continue cooking 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat; cool. Fold in remaining strawberries. Pour into baked pie shell. Chill just before serving top with whipped cream, sweetened to taste. Garnish with strawberries. If berries are not juicy, use 1/2 cup water.

Your Social Security

By EARL W. TRINKLE

Field Representative
"The facts, man, just the facts." Like Sergeant Friday, that's what you want to know about your social security. There should be no mystery about where to get those facts—your social security office or Field Representative, of course.

Your social security situation isn't exactly the same as your neighbor's or your brother's, for that matter. So that you may make your plans and be sure that social security will play the role that you expect it to, you should get your facts and get them straight. You need to know how long you have to work under social security to qualify for benefits, approximately how much your benefits will be, what rights your family may have. You'll probably want to find out what papers you'll need when you do file your application. Possibly you can't get a birth certificate so you'll want to know what other documents are acceptable to establish your age. Do you know that you have an individual social security account with your name and social security number on it? This account shows all wages reported for you by your employer's during your lifetime and all self-employment net earnings you have reported when you filed your income tax return. This record is kept by the Accounting Division of the Social Security Administration in Baltimore. Your record accurately shows what your employers have reported, or what you have reported as a self-employed person. But, if your employer has made an error on his tax returns, or you have made an error in filing your income tax return, this error may affect future benefits to you or your family. You should take steps to learn about it. You can get a special post card for this purpose at your local social security office to send to Baltimore for a statement of your earnings. If they do not agree, contact your local social security office and they will take action to correct it. Remember, there is a time limitation for correcting your record, and for this reason you should check your account at least once every three years.

There is just one place to obtain the facts about your Social Security. You should contact the Social Security Office at 220 W. Brambleton Avenue in Norfolk, Virginia, or contact your local Post Office for information about when and where you can see a Field Representative when he visits your area.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

A Real
"Novel" Idea

Had a call from Whitey Fisher, head of the Town Library's Emergency Committee. He's asked me to explain the situation.

This is the "emergency." The Library's moving into its new building next week—over on Bridge Street. Moving all the books will cost more than $100. At that rate we won't be able to afford any new books for a couple of years.

Whitey's got the solution—have everyone in town borrow at least five books, keep them a week, and return them to the new address!

From where I sit, cooperation among neighbors to the lifeblood of a town. People should work together... whether it's to help a library or fight intolerance. For instance, if you'll respect my right to an occasional glass of beer—and I respect the beverage of your choice... that kind of cooperation will do lots to help wipe intolerance "off the books."

...you save two ways
with electric
water heating

VEPCO BETTER LIVING DEMONSTRATION

ELECTRIC

VEPCO HOME DESIGN ENGINEER: Right from the start, an Electric Water Heater saved you money. You can watch the cost of fuel lines, vent or chimney from your building plans.

YOU: But don't most houses have a fireplace chimney anyway? ENGINEER: Even so, it is seldom in the best place for a water heater. Remember, if you have to put a water heater near a fire, and then carry hot water through a long run of pipe, it wastes a lot of heat. In fact, having to pipe water a long way, rather than a short way from your water heater can make you pay for hundreds of gallons of hot water a month that you never get to heat.

YOU: Can an Electric Water Heater save all that? ENGINEER: Certainly. An Electric Water Heater looks in any where close to your sink and laundry. And if you have a long line with kitchen laundry at one end, and bathroom and kitchen at the other end, you can easily put in two Electric Water Heaters, one at each location. They'll never disturb you, for they're electric, and give off no heat or fumes. Better talk to your Appliance Dealer or Plumbing Contractor about the low-cost "luxury" hot water heating—automatic, around-the-clock hot water, the modern electric way.

Baptist Church To Serve Southside Virginia Beach

The Beachlawn Baptist Chapel, now meeting in Cooke Elementary School on 15th Street, will continue as a full and independent Baptist church, cooperating with the Norfolk Baptist Association, on October 4, 1959. It was announced Monday by the Beachlawn pastor, the Rev. Richard G. Seiler. Since its initial meeting on January 4, 1959, Beachlawn has advanced rapidly in its service to southside Virginia Beach. A highly successful Vacation Bible School was well-attended in June. Now fully organized, with a Sunday School staff of 70 general and departmental officers and teachers, and an active men's Brotherhood, and a Women's Missionary Union, Beachlawn further plans to launch its Baptist Training Union and evangelistic evening worship services on October 4th. A Sunday School bus will soon be in operation to provide transportation to the church. The hours of worship are Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. and Worship Services, 11:00 a.m.; both being held in Cooke School. The Nursery is open for all services. The public is cordially invited to worship with Beachlawn.

President George Washington declared an embargo against England and France on March 23, 1794, as economic reprisal against countries for aggressive actions against U.S. shipping.

Beach Rotary Club Host to District Governor at Meet

"One of the greatest contributing factors in the growth of business within the United States is the American custom of doing business with our friends," says Winston K. Pendleton, District Governor of Rotary International for Eastern Virginia. Governor Pendleton, a public relations consultant and public speaker from Falls Church, made this claim during his annual official visit and address to the Rotary Club of Virginia Beach, Thursday night, August 26th.

"Rotary was founded on the principle that the gap between friendship and business could be bridged. In 1905 this was a revolutionary idea," Pendleton said. "Since then, when Rotary was formed by five Chicago businessmen, meeting in the home of a friend, the ever widening circle of Rotarians embraces half a million men in more than 115 countries of the world. Rotary's idea of bridge building between men and men and between Rotary Clubs and communities was only a beginning."

Governor Pendleton explained that the ideal of "Service Above Self" upon which Rotary is based has become the accepted standard of practice among millions of businessmen. "The ideal of service," he said, "is building bridges of friendship every day, between men throughout the world. And these bridges of friendship, being formed on an international basis, could well set the pattern for better good will and understanding between nations. Show me two nations that have good business relations and I'll show you two nations that have good political and diplomatic relations."

'Confederacy' Tickets To Be Given Donors

One ticket to Paul Green's "Confederacy" will be given to each donor on Monday, August 31. The Tidewater Regional Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Princess Anne County at the Coast Guard Station on Atlantic Avenue and 24th street. The blood unit will be set-up from noon to 6 o'clock and Confederate music will be furnished by the Confederacy Orchestra. Baby sitters will be at the Coast Guard Station to take care of children while parents donate and anyone needing transportation to and from the Bloodmobile visit may call the Red Cross office, Garden 8-1802. Parking for blood donors will be available on 24th Street adjacent to the Coast Guard Station.

Remember, the date: Monday, August 31st; the time: noon until 6 p.m.; the place: Coast Guard Station, Atlantic Avenue and 24th St. Give a pint of blood and save a life.

Cruise on Presidential Yacht Highlight of Beach Youngsters Visit With Nixons

There are no doubts many youngsters living in Virginia Beach who have visited Washington, D. C., the Nation's Capitol, but there are two young ladies who have just returned from visiting in the home of Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon with memories they will never forget.

Patricia Renn, 13, and Mary Jo Kellam, 11, returned to their Virginia Beach homes Sunday morning after spending several days in the Nixon home with the two Nixon girls, Patricia and Julie.

The first thing Patricia recalled was the fact that the Nixons have four kittens, a dog and a bird. Both Patricia and Mary Jo agreed that dinner and a cruise on the Presidential yacht "Sunde E" Saturday night was the highlight of their visit.

Last Saturday was Patricia's 13th birthday and in celebration the two Nixon children along with Mary Jo presented a play filled with songs and dances. Then the four girls gave a play for the Vice President and Mrs. Nixon.

Patricia said a special Marine review program on Friday night was very impressive. She also listed the visits to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Capitol and the White House as points she probably will remember best.

Mary Jo related that she thought they had a special Secret Service man conduct them on a tour of the White House. "The East Room is the ballroom and they have a swimming pool and movie theatre," she added.

The two girls said they did not see too much of the Vice President as he was so busy. But they both agreed that the Nixons were a wonderful mother and a "perfect lady." "She is just like a real mother. We want to be like her."

market with her," Patricia and Mary Jo said.

Both Patricia and Mary Jo proved invaluable ambassadors of goodwill for Virginia Beach. They said they had practically been assured that the Nixons would come back to Virginia Beach next summer.

Here is a brief sketch of the four-day visit with the Nixons:

Thursday — Visited the Capitol, F.B.I. and had dinner at the Congressional Country Club that night.

Friday — Visited the White House on a conducted tour, dined in the Nixon home, and witnessed an impressive Marine review that evening.

Saturday — Visited the Smithsonian Institute, Jefferson Memorial, Lincoln Memorial and cruised on the Presidential yacht Saturday night with the Vice President and Mrs. Nixon. Also enjoyed dinner on the yacht.

Sunday morning — arrived back home filled with many enjoyable moments that both agreed they will never forget.

County Pony Grad Baseball Champions

Bayside Robbins Capture County Pony Grad Baseball Title With Win Over Oceana Nine

OCEANA — The Bayside Robbins emerged victorious last week in the final game of the two out of three series to win the Princess Anne County Pony Grad Championship. The Robbins, behind the flint hitting of Bob LaRose, defeated the Oceana Lions 7 to 2.

The Oceana Lions took the first fourth inning with the bases loaded. Louis Doughty, stellar catcher for the Robbins, stepped to the plate with two men out. Doughty hit the second pitch deep in the right field corner scoring Murry, Carroll, Collier and himself on the grand-slam. In the fifth inning Doughty drove in Carroll with a solid double to right-center field. He personally accounted for five of the seven runs scored by the Bayside nine.

Temple Emanuel Honoring N. Polis In Celebrating Tenth Anniversary

The congregation of Temple Emanuel at Virginia Beach is celebrating their Tenth Anniversary year by honoring Mr. Nathan Polis, the Founding Father and all the charter members at a special testimonial dinner on Sunday, Sept. 13. Through the combined efforts of Nathan Polis and the charter members the corner stone of Temple Emanuel was laid July, 1949. Prior to the completion of the building the congregation held religious services at Town Hall, The Chapel at Fort Story, and the Community House, Virginia Beach.

Cardinals Win County Midget Championship

KEMPSVILLE — Baseball, baseball! Baseball may be dying in the minor leagues; however, for the youth of Princess Anne County the game's the thing. Approximately 7,000 baseball lovers, including happy and disheartened parents, turned out last week at the Kempsville Stadium to watch the Princess Anne County Double Elimination Baseball Tournament for the Midget Championship.

After 14 ball games the Larasan Cardinals, coached by John Terkerz of Aragona Village, emerged the County Champions. Led by the fine pitching of Buster Ohrlen, the Cardinals went through the tournament without a loss. Buster pitched no-hit ball games in the final two games against the Kempville Cardinals. He struck out 26 batters in the two no-hitters. In the final game he accounted for two of his team's four hits against Roger Henderson the losing pitcher for the Kempville nine. What most people didn't realize was that Buster had a broken thumb on his glove hand. He broke his thumb in practice Wednesday morning prior to his first no-hitter pitched on Thursday. College and pro athletes have played with broken bones, however, you must admit this took lots of courage and was quite a feat for a 12-year-old lad.

Team and individual trophies were awarded immediately following the final game. Buster Ohrlen and David Flannigan received trophies for the most outstanding players, and Jesse Cox, Jim Garrett, Andy Shockleford, and Larry Bowman received sportsmanship awards. The Cardinals Indians, coached by Howard Morris, received the team trophy for sportsmanship.

County Government Would Move To Creed's Airstrip in Emergency

The Princess Anne County governmental agencies would be relocated at the old Creed's Airstrip in the event of an emergency if tentative civil defense plans are given final approval, Ivan D. Mapp, head of the area's civil defense, told the Board of Supervisors Monday.

Mapp told the members of the Board that the county's tentative plans for relocation of the county government only awaits final Federal approval.

In another matter the Board heard a plea that swimming in the Rudee inlet area of Virginia Beach be outlawed because of the hazard of outgoing tides.

Josh Vaughan, pier operator, made the suggestion. Vaughan said "the place is a killer."

A dozen persons were pulled out of the surf last week end. The sweep of the tide creates the hazard, Vaughan said. The Board referred the question to the Rudee Committee.

The Board considered the following other matters:

Attorney Jorian A. Pugh suggested licensing of crab pots in the Lynnhaven River and its tributaries.

"The crab pot problem has gotten out of hand," Pugh said. "There are too many of them."

The Board plans a study of the conflicting rights of crab pot owners and persons whose navigation is impeded.

Colin Studds, of Rose Hall, spoke lengthily on behalf of dog owners. He said the dog warden had taken a dog from his property without permission.

Studds suggested that dog owners be permitted to run their dogs freely on their own property without collars. No action was taken on the proposal to restrict the warden.

The Board discussed landowner contributions to the proposed drainage ditches in the Kempsville District. It was suggested that landowners pledge 50 per cent or $5,000 toward the ditches.

Residents of the North Thalia area requested a traffic light on the Virginia Beach Boulevard. Further study was recommended.

The county treasurer asked for a $500 appropriation to procure civil warrants against delinquent taxpayers. This was granted. Legal action against the delinquents will start in September.

The Board declined a proposed $25,000 welfare budget for the fiscal year ending June 1961. Instead it voted to hold the appropriation to the present $25,463.64.

The Board discussed requiring future county housing projects to be built on a lot basis.

The homecoming program will be at the church from 9:45 a.m. until 4 p.m. with dinner served on the grounds. Eugene Arrington, will bring the sermon entitled, "We Have This Heritage," 11 a.m. until 12 noon. Immediately following the worship service, dinner will be served to members, friends and guests of the church by the Ladies of Oak Grove Baptist Church. After the eating and fellowship period, there will be an afternoon program with the Rev. E. I. Mosher, pastor of Thalia Lynn Baptist as guest speaker. Rev. Mosher will bring a message on "An Expanding Ministry, to an Expanding Population."

Former members and friends of this church are given a cordial invitation to attend this special day of services.

Pirates in Florida

Budget Drive Under Way at Thalia Lynn

Boone, Jr. The budget is for operating expenses of the Church for the fiscal year beginning October 1, 1959, and a large portion is designated for debt retirement and preparation for a major building to be constructed in 1961.

No. The group above is not digging for treasure, but are breaking ground for the construction of a new motel at Naples, Florida, to be known as the Goffing Buccaneer. It is the latest enterprise of George R. Guy, center, co-owner of the Golf Ranch Motel in Virginia Beach. Guy announced that the new motel will feature a pitch and putt golf course and is to be completed in early January. The young lady is Barbara Jean Clemons of Naples and the ferocious pirate at left is Bill Skeels, Naples realtor.

Rudee Swimming Deserves Attention

The attention of the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors on Monday was called to the problem of the swimmers in the Rudee Inlet waters, particularly from the fishing pier south to Rudee Inlet, itself.

We do not pretend to be an expert on the subject at hand but it does seem that the problem is worthy of investigation. And, this is exactly what the Board of Supervisors decided when they referred the matter to the Rudee Inlet Committee.

According to a spokesman before the Board at its meeting last Monday hardly a day passes that swimmers in the area do not find themselves in serious trouble and are pulled to safety.

Those familiar with the Rudee Inlet area and the particular portion referred to before the Board of Supervisors are of the opinion that the waters near the entrance to Rudee Lake are tricky due to the incoming and outgoing tides, the same action that tends to fill the entrance to the Inlet with sand.

We believe the committee to which the matter has been referred should give careful consideration to the problem and we believe that some remedial steps should be taken promptly to insure against a possible tragedy in this area.

The Board of Supervisors acted wisely in referring this problem to the Rudee Committee. The Committee should waste little time in investigating what can be done to alleviate it.

The National Outlook

By RALPH ROBBY

This is the time of year when employment generally increases and unemployment decreases. Both trends were reflected in the July report.

This merely means that there is a seasonal pattern in both employment and unemployment. In the case of employment the low point is in January and the high point in July, the variation being about 6 per cent. The unemployment pattern is more complicated and the variance of the swing is over 35 per cent. The high point of unemployment is in June and the low point October. Seasonal variations must be taken into account in appraising the data for any month.

6.5 MILLION JOBSOLDIER

In mid-July the total number of persons holding jobs was the highest in history—67.5 million. This is encouraging, although the increase from June was less than the normal seasonal rise because of a much greater decline in agricultural employment as a result of bad weather in the South and Midwest. In manufacturing the decline was less than one half the normal for this period. Increases in certain industries and other activities, however, offset the decline in agriculture and manufacturing.

As expected, unemployment dropped from the June total, but the decline was less than seasonal. The July unemployment was 3.7 million, as compared to 4 million in June. The unemployment figures were not affected by the steel strike in any appreciable extent. That strike started the week the employment survey was being made, and a large proportion of the strikers had a vacation with pay which they took at the beginning of the steel shutdown. It is important to remember that in order for anyone to be counted as unemployed he must be both out of work and looking for a job. A striker is out of work, but is not necessarily looking for a job. The August report, however, will reflect steel strike unemployment, and perhaps some other major stoppages.

As a consequence of unemployment declining less than normal seasonal the total amounted to 5.1 per cent of the civilian labor force, as contrasted to 4.9 per cent in June. Because of vacations the average work week declined slightly and so did the average weekly earnings. Even so the work week is 1.4 hours more than in July 1958, and average weekly earnings were up $4.59 from July 1958. These hours of work and earnings refer to factory workers.

One final point deserves comment. Our total labor force is increasing more rapidly. For the past couple of years the annual growth rate has been only about 1.5 per cent, below the long term trend. That was fortunate from the point of view of unemployment. Our labor force is now growing at an annual rate of 3.000. It means we must have more capital investment, more new products, harder selling and better markets if we are to keep unemployment at a reasonable level.

GROUND FOR OPTIMISM

In summary, the July employment is encouraging. It is not as good as one would like, but at least the data shows recovery is continuing.

What is indicated for the volume of unemployment in October, the low month of the year? Specifically, what of Secretary of Labor Mitchell's promise to eat his hat if the total is not down to at least three million? This will depend upon the rate of recovery from here on, and how many persons are unemployed at that time because of strikes. At the rate of recovery there is no cause for worry, unless the steel strike continues so long that it starts materially hurting other industries. At the moment that does not appear probable. All told, therefore, it is reasonable to expect that in October the total unemployment will be below 3 million.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

We need your help!

You may need ours!

Have you heard that? I had not until three weeks ago. It is the appeal and motto for The Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad, a finer group of persons I've never known.

Six years ago a few business men started an organization: that now has 49 members. These busy men have qualified for their first aid duties. They work hand-in-hand with the police and public to assist in every disaster or worthy cause. Their services, day and night, are completely volunteer.

During the past year 930 persons have called for assistance which was promptly, generously and adequately given.

The expenditure of money has been great and, supported only by contributions. There is more needed equipment to maintain the ambulances and all other gear.

Only we can help, no matter the amount of our gifts. A new comer to Virginia Beach, I learned of these fine men and their service. I was desperately ill brother from Baltimore, Maryland, had one wish that he and his wife visit me here. Through The Rescue Squad this wish was granted.

We cannot all be Saints as St. Francis of Assisi, patron Saint of the birds, who lived from 1181 to 1226.

He believed in fellowship one with another. He was lovable and strongest of men, although he had illness and disappointments. His precept, Joyousness, which was his rule and one that he enforced strictly. His practice was that of a Christian, as is the practice of each member of The Rescue Squad.

May I give to you St. Francis' "Prayer For Peace," which exemplifies The Rescue Squad.

"Lord, make me an instrument of thy peace where there is hatred, let me show love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; where there is sadness, joy."

Q. Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood as to understand; to be loved as to love. For it is in giving that we receive. It is in pardoning that we are pardoned; and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life."

I repeat, "It is in giving that we receive."

Give to a Service that you may never need, you may, others will. We did!

53 Nansemond Farms Under Quarantined

The State Board of Agriculture imposed a quarantine on 53 farms in Nansemond County found to be infested with soybean cyst nematode.

But Parke C. Brinkley, Commissioner of Agriculture, told a delegation of Nansemond County farmers that quarantine restrictions would present the "least possible burden" to affected farms.

Necessary restrictions on movement of farm crops, supplies and equipment from the quarantined farms are lessening day by day, the Commissioner said, as Federal and State plant pest officials learn more about the nematode and how it is spread.

There will be no restrictions on the movement of livestock, people, automobiles or trucks, Brinkley said. Soybeans and corn can move without restriction so long as neither the grain nor the containers touches the ground.

For peanuts, Department plans at the moment are to set up a seed shelter in the area where farmers' crops could be cleaned, put into new bags and sent to market.

But Brinkley said the State hoped soon to be able to let peanuts move direct to designated cleaning plants in the area which would agree to safely dispose of dirt and trash from the cleaning operation.

Peanuts will be turned loose to move direct to these plants as soon as Federal authorities, who have already imposed a quarantine on the same farms, agree, Brinkley said.

Peanut farmers will have to put boards under their peanut sacks in the field to keep them from touching the ground.

Farm equipment and machinery, particularly peanut diggers, plows, combines, peanut pickers, are most likely to spread the pest. Movement of machinery from infested to non-infested farms must be strictly controlled.

Brinkley said the state had the choice between putting on a Virginia quarantine to keep farm trade channels open or doing nothing and watching the Federal government quarantine the entire state and tie up the movement of farm products across the State line.

The initial State quarantine will cover only the 53 farms on which the soybean cyst nematode has been positively identified, Brinkley said.

Other infested farms may be included as soon as scouting teams can take soil samples and laboratories can check them for the pest. Most of Virginia's other soybean area has been spot-checked without finding the pest, but field-by-field checks are still being made.

A microscopic soil organism, the soybean cyst nematode can virtually wipe out a soybean crop in a heavily infested field. Nansemond's infestation so far has not shown serious damage to soybeans, but by the time it does, the bug may be spread over most of Eastern Virginia.

Taking an infested field out of soybeans or other host crops will cut down the soybean cyst nematode population by as much as 75% but treatment for complete eradication, by present known methods cost over $200 an acre.

FAMILY CAR TIP

KIBITZING PAYS OFF

Do you ever take the time to "rubber neck" when your car is being serviced? You might save yourself some considerable trouble and expense by snooping around under the car when it's on the lift for a tube job.

According to the Purisator Automotive Research Bureau, you can learn a lot by spending a few minutes looking around under the car. Here are things to check:

1. Condition of tires. Look for bald spots; cups, uneven wear at the sides or center of the tread, breaks and other defects which can give trouble on the road.

2. Shock absorbers. Take a look at the rubber bushings that connect the shock absorbers at either end. Sometimes you'll see the rubber badly worn or completely gone. This can be the source of an annoying rattle.

3. Muffler and tail pipe. A quick examination of these parts can indicate the need for impending replacement. Tap the bottom of the muffler lightly with a hammer and you can tell by the sound whether or not it is badly rusted.

4. Leaks. Fresh oil underneath the car—especially around the engine, transmission or rear axle—is an indication of leaks that should be attended to. Some amount of seepage is expected, but when a serious leak is present, it will be easy to spot when the car is on the lift.

Also, look for brake fluid leaks on the exterior of oil brake drums. This condition can be serious and should be attended to without delay.

Veeco Operating Revenues Show 9.7 Per Cent Gain

The Virginia Electric and Power Company's operating revenues for July of $12,555,000 and the net income for the month of $2,213,000 were reported today at a meeting of the Board of Directors, at Staunton, Va.

President A. H. McDowell, Jr. said this represents a gain of 9.7 per cent in revenues and 8.4 per cent in net income over July of 1958. Operating revenues for the 12 months ended July 31 were $145,782,000 and net income was $26,830,000, he said. This represents an increase of 7.7 per cent in revenues for the year and 4.5 per cent in net income.

Earnings per share of common stock for the current 12 months were $1.61, based on the 14,010,000 shares outstanding July 31, 1959, compared with $1.61 on 710,000 fewer shares outstanding in July, 1958. McDowell reported an increase of approximately 21,800 electric customers and 3,000 gas customers for the year ending July 31.

"Construction costs," McDowell said, "have increased steadily during the past 18 years as our company expanded to meet the rapid industrial, commercial, residential and rural growth in our service area."

"In order to give the best possible service to our customers," he added, "Veeco has spent over $460,000,000 in building new facilities and plants during the past 10 years. New additions costing millions of dollars have been added recently to plants at Yorktown, Portsmouth and Brerly. A new multi-million dollar addition to the Chertlefield power station is currently under construction."

New headquarters buildings recently have been constructed at Fishersville and Charlottesville, Va., and at Williamsburg. A national construction program is being studied to meet the expected growth of Veeco's service area.

"To assure continued growth," the company has raised $22,000,000 in new money during the last 10 years, through the sale of long term debt securities and preferred and common stock," McDowell said.

He said a total of $22,000,000 has been spent during the first seven months of 1959 of an estimated construction budget of $34,000,000 this year.

Directors declared a quarterly dividend of 27 cents per share on the common stock, payable September 21, to stockholders of record at the close of business on August 31.

Regular quarterly dividends declared, also payable September 21, to stockholders of record August 21, were as follows: $1.35 per share on the $5 dividend preferred; $1.01 per share on the $4.00 dividend preferred; $1.05 per share on the $4.20 dividend preferred and $1.03 per share on the $4.12 dividend preferred.

Veeco to Build Fourth Unit at Portsmouth

The Board of Directors of the Virginia Electric and Power Company today authorized the expenditure of $30,500,000 for the construction of a fourth unit at the Portsmouth Power Station.

President A. H. McDowell, Jr., announcing the decision following the Board meeting at Staunton, Va., said the construction on the 220,000 Kilowatt unit will begin next Spring. Completion date is expected to be in the Spring of 1962.

Completion of the fourth unit at Portsmouth will bring the generating capability of this station to approximately 600,000 Kilowatts—more than enough power to light up the combined cities of Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News. When the new unit is completed, the Portsmouth station will have the greatest Kilowatt capability of any in Veeco's system.

McDowell, citing the rapid industrial and residential growth of Veeco's operating area in Virginia, North Carolina and West Virginia, said the new project is a part of Veeco's "continuing plan of construction to keep up with the growing customer demand for electricity."

The Portsmouth station serves the eastern part of Veeco's system, including the Metropolitan areas of Norfolk, Portsmouth, South Norfolk and Suffolk. McDowell recently announced a new $31,000,000 addition to Veeco's Possum Point Power Station. This unit, similar in capability to the proposed unit in Portsmouth, will be started next Spring and is also expected to be in operation by the Spring of 1962. The Possum Point Station serves the northern part of Veeco's system, including the metropolitan areas of Arlington, Alexandria, Fredericksburg and Falls Church.

McDowell said construction of these two units will add 440,000 Kilowatt capability to Veeco's system and bring the company's total generating capability to approximately 2,500,000 Kilowatts in 1962, an increase of 31.5 per cent over the present capability of approximately 1,900,000 Kilowatts.

New additions recently have been added to Veeco's Bremo, Portsmouth and Yorktown power stations. Another new unit of 170,000 Kilowatt capability is currently under construction at the Cherokee Power Station.

"The average annual use of electricity by residential customers during the last 10 years has increased by 120 per cent," McDowell said, "while the number of customers served has grown by 70 per cent during the same 10 year period."

Labor Day Litterbugs Invaders of Outer Space

"Litterbugs" annually toss enough trash on U. S. highways to project a standard two-lane road, paved with debris a foot high, 30,000 miles into outer space, according to Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national public service organization for the prevention of litter. And a good stretch of this imaginary trash trail will be laid during the upcoming Labor Day weekend, unless the 1959 holiday proved different from other years.

The volume of travel-trash and pedestrian litter will vary with locale, population and traffic flow, but on a national basis is expected to total over 100,000 tons during the 3-day weekend. In New York City, 8 million residents and tourists will scatter an estimated 12,000 tons; in West Orange, N.J., the 28,500 inhabitants will drop 36 tons of litter, and in residential Greenwich, Conn. (pop. 58,625) 24 tons.

The number of tax dollars spent for cleaning up this great litter trail is startling. Oregon spends $32,500 annually for litter pickup; Wisconsin, $180,000; Iowa, $100,000. Mississippi estimates roadside cleanup costs $48 per mile, and Missouri $38 per mile.

Facing up to the problem, many states and local anti-litter groups are working toward the common goal of a cleaner America. Here are some of the methods being used. In New Jersey, the Automobile Club, Junior Chamber of Commerce, and state officials started a concerted attack on the litter problem last year, urging motorists to keep the 173-mile Garden State Parkway trash-free. Results: despite a 15-percent increase in traffic, there has been less litter fallout per capita this year than last.

The Women's Chamber of Commerce of Atlanta, Georgia, is calling public attention to the city's littered "eyesores" by sponsoring an "Accuse the Negative" photography contest for both amateurs and professionals. Final objective is to confront the owner or appropriate city official with the pictured "evidence" and get cooperation in cleaning up the offending sight. Results to date are excellent.

Industry took the initiative when the Mississippi Power & Light Company recently launched a statewide "Keep Mississippi's Highways Clean" project, sponsored by the Governor. State agencies, garden clubs and other groups. The company's 4-point program includes: (1) distribution of 50,000 litterbugs; (2) making available 5,000 bumper stickers for company and other vehicles; (3) encouraging company personnel to participate in community anti-litter efforts, and (4) a concerted publicity and information program utilizing all local media.

Hawaii, newest candidate for statehood, has had a litter-prevention program under way for some time. The Hawaiian Land Company recently donated 25,000 litterbugs to support the Keep Hawaii Clean program. Distribution was by Tide-water Flying A Service Stations, Sears Roebuck & Company and the Ala Moana Merchants Association. Litterbugs may not have it all their own way during the Labor Day weekend because of the many anti-litter groups lined up against them. But, if each citizen assumed responsibility for proper disposal of his own litter there would be no need for any costly clean-up jobs. Keep America Beautiful, Inc. urges every one to carry a litterbug in his car for travel-trash (a plain grocery bag will do) and to dispose of it later in a proper receptacle, either at home or along the way.

Sailmaker Exams Are Announced

A civil service examination has been announced at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard for sailmaker, $241 an hour.

Purpose of the examination, according to Jesse S. Howell, acting executive secretary, is to establish an eligible register for filling future vacancies.

Duties of a sailmaker are to fabricate and install awnings, sails, boat canopies, weather and protective cloths, and covers of all types for use on boat decks, ordnance articles and controls, deck and other machinery, hatch covers, and similar purposes.

To qualify, applicants must have completed a four-year apprenticeship in the trade, or have had four years of practical experience, which was sufficient in content and progressive acquisition of trade skills to have been the substantial equivalent of a completed apprenticeship.

Howell said that applications would be received until further notice. Application Form 57 may be secured at the shipyard and the Virginia State Employment Service, or persons may apply at any post office for applications or for information as to where the forms may be obtained.

August—as you know is being celebrated as "Sandwich Month" as it is every year. From the Fourth Annual National Sandwich Idea Contest came a career working girl, 80 years old, Miss Laura B. Hale of Tulsa, Oklahoma, as the winner. The coronation ceremonies for Miss Hale were staged at the food editors' luncheon in the Hotel Pierre, New York City. She was crowned "Sandwich Queen of 1958." She created the grand champion sandwich of 1958. The octogenarian cashier-checker at the Y.W.C.A. Cafeteria in Tulsa won a two-week, all expense gourmet tour of Europe's finest eating places for two persons plus $500 in spending money for her three-decker sandwich idea. Miss Hale will take her boss, Mrs. Sarah V. Dyer Burns, food director of the Tulsa Y.W.C.A. with her on her wonderful trip.

Miss Hale and Mrs. Burns will leave Tulsa about mid-September for New York and thence on Scandinavian Airline's System to Copenhagen. The world famous Oskar Davidson's Restaurant there will be her host. Rome, Brussels, Paris, Cologne and London are on her schedule. Miss Hale will be the guest of honor at the food trade fair in Cologne on "American Day."

At 80, Miss Hale still works a five-day week. Born 1879 in Vernon County, Mo., she taught school at various times in Oklahoma Indian Territory, worked in the territorial government, was employed by two newspapers, served a stock men's association as a traveling secretary and homesteaded her own farm. Known as "Aunt Laura" to the women of the Tulsa "Y," Miss Hale was led to enter the Sandwich Contest by a lifelong interest in recipes and food.

Miss Hale's sandwich was named "All-American." The sandwich features avocado, sour cream, ham, eggs, cream cheese, chives and sauce in a delicious combination. Here is the winner's recipe:

- All American
- 6 yolks of hard-cooked eggs
 - 1 tablespoon of prepared mustard
 - 2 teaspoons dairy sour cream
 - 10 slices enriched sandwich bread (crusts removed)
 - 8 slices baked or boiled Ham
 - 1 cup mashed avocado, (about 1 medium avocado)
 - 1 teaspoon French dressing
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 6 ounces cream cheese, softened
 - 4 teaspoons dairy sour cream
 - 1 cup finely chopped chives
 - Put egg yolks through sieve. Stir in mustard and sour cream. Spread 4 slices with egg mixture. Put 2 slices together with ham in center. Mix avocado with french dressing and salt. Spread between remaining slices of bread. Blend sour cream and cream cheese. Stir in chives. Spread cheese mixture on top of bread forming outside of sandwich. Press avocado sandwich gently down on cheese to bind the two sandwiches together. diagonally into halves. Garnish with ripe olives and sprigs of water cress. Make 4—three decker sandwiches.

There were two runner-up prize winners. William H. Johnston of Salem, Oregon took second place and $1,000 with his "Round-Dog" recipe. Mrs. Pauline Dale of Mt. Vernon, Wash., placed third and received $500 with a recipe for "Open-Face Crab Supreme." Each of the top three winners were flown to New York on air all-expense paid trip for the coronation.

The contest is sponsored annually by the National Restaurant Association and the Wheat Flour Institute, Chicago, in search of new ideas in sandwich cookery and preparation. Hope next year some of the winners will come from the eastern part of our countryget busy girls and think up some winners.

Your Social Security

By EARL W. TRINKLE
Field Representative

A question often asked by persons who are nearing retirement age is, "When may I file for my social security benefits?" Anyone who is near retirement age, 62 for women and 66 for men, can file for benefits at least a month before their birthday.

Early filing of an application insures more prompt payment of benefits. A potential claimant will need to bring his social security card, proof of his age, and evidence of his last year's work such as a Form W-2 if he works for wages. Proof of age of his wife will be needed if she is 62 years old and wishes to file with her husband. If there are minor children, under age 18, their birth certificates also will be needed.

A self-employed person will need to submit a copy of his last two year's tax returns and proof that the returns were filed. This is usually a money order stub or a cancelled check. If a claimant doesn't have all the necessary proofs, he should ask the Social Security representative how to get these proofs.

For more information about filing for social security benefits, write to the social security office located at 230 W. Brambleton Avenue, Norfolk, Va.

Don't throw trash in vacant lots. Don't litter streets and sidewalks. Help stamp out litterbugging and keep America Beautiful.

FORT STORY BATTALION GETS NEW CHIEF

Lt. Colonel Jack W. Tooley, who has recently come from Okinawa, took command of Fort Story's Tenth Transportation Battalion (Terminal Service) in ceremonies held at battalion headquarters Monday.

The new battalion commander replaced Major R. J. Scherberger, who assumed command of the battalion in April. Major Scherberger will remain with the battalion as executive officer.

Before coming to Fort Story this week, Col. Tooley was Director of the Military Port in Okinawa. He has been in terminal operations at Honolulu, an instructor at the Transportation School, Fort Eustis for four years and attended the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

During World War II he served in Europe with the Quartermaster Corps and integrated into the Transportation Corps in 1946. After the war he served in Hawaii and Japan. The colonel now lives at Fort Story with his wife and son.

FORT STORY HEADQUARTERS RETURNS FROM NEW ORLEANS TRAINING

The Headquarters of the 4th Transportation Terminal Command "C", Fort Story, returned this week from a seven-day tour of on-the-job training and observation with the US Army Transportation Terminal Command, Gulf at New Orleans last week.

The alert exercise, which included training in air transportability, saw the unit move out in full field equipment and set up a bivouac area at Camp Leroy Johnson, located on the shores of Lake Ponchartrain. From there daily trips were made to the New Orleans Port, where the 4th TTC officers and men integrated with Gulf Terminal Command counterparts for the training phase of the exercise.

During the exercise the Fort Story contingent was welcomed to the Gulf Terminal Command by Brigadier General Morton Townes, Commanding General of Gulf. The Story group was then escorted on a tour of the New Orleans Port facilities.

The final two days of the maneuver saw the 4th observing Gulf methods of handling cargo, documentation and overall port operations.

During the absence of the 4th TTC "C" from Fort Story, the post was manned by the 2385th TTC "C", a reserve unit commanded by Colonel Clarence C. Curtis.

NEW POST ENGINEER AT FORT STORY

Lt. Colonel Raymond F. Fisher reported to Fort Story this month as the Post Engineer, replacing Captain George W. Schreiner, who has left for Germany.

The new Post Engineer comes to Fort Story from Nuremberg, Germany where he was also the Post Engineer.

A native of Oregon, Lt. Col. Fisher graduated from Washington State and entered the field of mining and geophysical prospecting, entering the Army in 1942. He has been with the Corps of Engineers ever since.

When the Korean conflict broke out Lt. Col. Fisher was stationed in Japan and went to Korea with the 8th Engineer Construction Battalion.

The colonel will live at Fort Story with his wife and three boys.

Progress Reported Against Smut Mail to Children

Postmaster Merrel M. Nash Jr. reports that the Post Office Department's drive to stamp out the activities of "merchants in filth" who solicit minor children for the mail-order sale of obscene materials is making substantial headway.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, he states, is taking increasingly effective action against this growing, nation-wide racket.

Postmaster General Summerfield has notified the local postmaster that during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1959, the Post Office Department conducted more than 14,000 separate investigations of traffic in mail order obscenity, of which approximately 10,000 were based on complaints from parents aroused to the menace presented by "the vicious arrogance of the smut racketeers."

Actual arrests during the year, according to Postmaster Nash, totaled 315, a significant increase over the previous year, and almost double the number of arrests during 1957, when the Post Office Department was still hampered by inadequate enforcement legislation.

Prior to the summer of 1958, antiquated laws and liberal court interpretations — Postmaster General Summerfield prefers to call them "misinterpretations" — required that even the most blatant profiteer, sending the vilest possible material through the mails to school-age children, could be prosecuted only at the point of origin of the mail, usually New York or Los Angeles.

According to Postmaster Nash, the "liberal" courts in these cities established a definition of "obscenity" far different from views held by the majority in most normal American communities.

In 1958 the Postmaster General recommended new legislation to the 85th Congress, which would permit prosecution of such racketeers at the point where the mail was received, and where the actual attempt to corrupt children's moral and social health took place. Congress promptly responded to the Postmaster General's plea, and translated the recommendations into law.

Postmaster Nash reports that this new legislation is now beginning to bear fruit. The first case prosecuted under the new law was of a man and his wife on the West Coast, who were "mailing obscene literature to youngsters in Boise, Idaho."

Thanks to the new law, according to Postmaster Nash, these two were convicted in Boise, and sentenced to 10 years behind bars plus a heavy fine.

In another recent California case, a 10-year prison sentence was imposed on a criminal offender convicted of sending obscene material through the mail, in contrast to so many previous cases in that area when probation had been granted.

Postmaster General Summerfield pointed out in a recent speech: "This represents, in our opinion, real progress of the type which can readily be expanded, so long as we have determined public support, prompt and positive investigation, and vigorous prosecution."

Postmaster Nash states that the Postmaster General and the Post Office Department attribute this progress to the broad support for the campaign being given by the nation's newspapers and radio and television commentators, public spirited civic organizations, members of Congress, and more and more individual citizens.

Their efforts, according to the Postmaster General, are not only alerting the public but are arousing judges and law enforcement officers to act firmly against the menace this traffic in filth presents to the healthy and decent development of the nation's youth.

VEPCO BETTER LIVING DEMONSTRATION
AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC WATER HEATER

VEPCO HOME ADVISOR: In the hot old summertime, especially, an Automatic Electric Water Heater makes good company. It keeps pouring out those piping hot gallons you need for big summer washes and extra summer baths. Yet it never heats up the house through its heavy insulation.

YOU: But aren't other water heaters insulated?

HOME ADVISOR: Some are, around the storage tanks. But only an Electric Water Heater can be completely insulated all over. Because only an Electric Water Heater needs no fire, and no fuel to carry off the hot combustion gases. That's why you can tuck it away anywhere. Or have it right in the kitchen or laundry next to your most-used hot water taps.

YOU: Does nearness to the taps make much difference?

HOME ADVISOR: I should say it does! A really long pipe from water heater to tap can waste hundreds of gallons of hot water a month! Better see the smart new Automatic Electric Water Heaters at your Electric Appliance Dealer's or Plumbing Contractor's soon. They're as safe and silent as electric light.

The Bayside Lions Club met Wednesday night, Aug. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at Shore Drive Inn. The president, Eugene F. Caldwell, presided.

The feature of the meeting was the presentation of awards for perfect attendance and outstanding service to the club and community. Bronze plaques were presented to four past presidents of the club: J. B. Loftin Jr. (1953-54); George C. Lyon (1954-55); D. J. Wilkins (1955-56); and R. L. Beale (1956-57). These plaques were awarded for their leadership. The plaques were similar to the ones presented R. L. Beale (1957-58) and William D. Nagg (1958-59) at the conclusion of their terms. The awards Wednesday night were presented by Lewis L. Dillon, International Councillor. Dillon also recognized the following for perfect attendance records: John E. Abelson, Jr., 5 years; George W. Core and Roy E. Twiford, six years; Eugene F. Caldwell, seven years; George C. Lyon, D. J. Wilkins, J. B. Loftin Jr., J. Hugh Barnes, and Millard C. Bryant, eight years. DEATH TAKES LITTLE
CREEK FERRY

A 20-year-old Cape Charles boy had a near brush with death Friday afternoon. He is young David Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Watson. He had been a patient at Northampton Memorial Hospital and was being transferred to Norfolk General Hospital. He is suffering from pneumonia. He was under an oxygen mask aboard the Old Point Comfort ferry from Kiptopeake when his oxygen supply was exhausted about 2 p.m. with the ferry more than 10 miles off Little Creek.

An emergency message was relayed to the Coast Guard. A 40-foot Coast Guard rescue boat obtained an oxygen tank from the Little Creek Naval Amphibious

Good Late Hatch Of Ducks Seen

An "explosion" of broods is taking place in the three prairie provinces . . . Abundant evidence that a good late hatch with large broods is now coming off wherever suitable water is available—three weeks to a month late, but not too late to bring the young to maturity before the snowflakes . . . Prospects much brighter now than they were a month ago.

These are the heartening highlights of the August issue of the Ducks Unlimited "Duckologist," prepared by Chief Naturalist Bert W. Cartwright.

Looking squarely at the situation, Cartwright observes, "This late production is not going to completely offset the poor production of the early-nesting Mallards and Pintails on the prairies, but it is going to compensate to a considerable degree."

He also comments . . . "One thing we must keep in mind. The duck population is at a high level and even if only 50 percent of the paired birds succeed in hatching a brood, it will go a long way toward Base hospital and delivered it to the ferry while at sea. The Coast Guard contacted the Chesapeake Beach Rescue Squad for additional oxygen and an ambulance to meet the ferry at the dock.

The boy and his mother were rushed to Norfolk General Hospital in the rescue squad ambulance with the additional oxygen while his life apparently hung in the balance. He arrived at the hospital in critical condition.

But thanks to the Coast Guard, the U. S. Navy and the Chesapeake Beach Rescue Squad the hospital reports on Monday morning that David is "much better."

maintaining that level. The duck population can stand a moderate setback and take it in its stride." Cartwright points out that 1959 is not the most severe of several drought years experienced by Ducks Unlimited since 1838. He states, "While it looks rather terrible on the prairies to those whose experience is limited to the lush, well-watered years of 1945-56, I don't think the setback this year is going to be too serious now that we can see this late hatch."

The report concludes . . . "Overall picture in the three provinces is that a late but satisfactory duck crop is in the making and partly in sight now."

HOG CHOLERA STILL PREVALENT

Hog cholera is still breaking out on some farms in Princess Anne County and causing heavy financial losses. I never like to write about trouble that we are having, but this gives me a good opportunity to write about one of my favorite subjects. That is a disease control program for every livestock farm.

Most of our disease epidemics can be controlled by a good vaccination program. Vaccination for any disease is nothing more than a good insurance policy. An insurance policy that you hope you will never have to collect on. Vaccination cost over the years are small when compared to a single loss of an entire flock of hogs. Therefore, I believe it is advisable to set up a vaccination program for your farm. Not only for hog cholera, but for other diseases such as erysipelas and others that are causing you trouble or diseases that are causing your neighbors trouble.

Let's look at the whole program. First of all, let's use a prevention method and that is sanitation. Sanitation is one of the best preventive methods for controlling diseases that we know of. Good clean facilities, both farrowing and feeding, and also pastures are essential in any disease control program. This is first. Second, is a vaccination program for all your hogs.

Both breeding stock and young pigs. Most veterinarians are recommending the modified Virus vaccine for cholera today. I believe this is wise because it does not have the ability to give hogs the cholera, however, it will immunize the hog against cholera. Now, this is guaranteed for approximately one year, so therefore breeding stock should be vaccinated about every other litter. Most of the modified viruses will give you immunity one week after vaccination. Therefore, I think it is wise to vaccinate two weeks before weaning time. By vaccinating two weeks before weaning time, the pigs will still be immunized by the sow's milk while the vaccine is taking over and there will be one week where the vaccine is doing the immunizing and also the mother's milk is immunizing.

Consult your personal veterinarian about the vaccination program that you should put into effect on your farm. You may not only want to vaccinate against cholera, but you may also want to vaccinate against other diseases. Talk with him, he will be very happy to give you the advice that you need.

CAUTION ADVISED WHEN FILLING SILO

Silo filling time is in full swing in Princess Anne County and now, as the rush really comes on there is a word of warning I would like to pass on to those who get into too much of a hurry. Nitrogen Dioxide, a poisonous gas that may form in fresh silage, can cause silo fillers disease, which is hazardous to both human and livestock. As little as 100 parts per million of the gas in the air can be dangerous. Silo fillers disease causes severe coughing and burning or choking pains in the throat and chest. A person who has these symptoms while working in the silo, or afterwards, should see a doctor immediately. Serious illness or death can result from delay. Farmers should take extra precaution when filling silos with corn that has been grown with a heavy application of nitrogen.

Here are a few precautions: Run the blower for 10 minutes before going into a partly filled silo and keep it running while you are inside. Be alert to irritating odors. The gas tends to settle in the silo chute and base. Look for yellowish-brown fumes; keep children and animals away during a silo filling and for at least a week after filling.

DON'T FORGET COVER CROPS

Let's don't get so busy this fall, boys, that you forget about seeding cover crops on those bare fields. Many dollars of fertilizer will be leached away, unless you have some green plant growing on the soil during the winter months. There are many different plants that can be grown satisfactorily as cover crops. I guess the one that we like to talk about more than others is Crimson Clover. This does a very satisfactory job if it can be seeded early. I would like to take a guess and say that Crimson Clover should not be seeded after October for best results. After October 1, I believe we can get better coverage, better grazing from the use of some of the small grain such as oats, barley, or rye. Rye will give you more growth, will give you more coverage than any of the others. However, while it is not quite as heavy in growth as rye, oats are more palatable to the livestock and if you are planning on grazing this is a very good factor to consider. Passing on some of the experience of the dairymen, they say that they can get more total feed from rye than they can from oats and many other dairymen are planting rye now rather than the oats.

Cover cropping is good business, so don't forget to drop by your seed store and get your seeds and to a good job of conserving soil and plant food through cover crops.

NEW 4-H BEEF AWARD PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

4-H Club members in Virginia are taking a second look these days at their beef animal projects with an eye on one of the awards offered for the first time by the Dupont Company.

An announcement of the new beef award program is being made by the State 4-H officials at VPI who say that nationally it is estimated that 135,000 members will be enrolled in the beef program this year. They learn about breeding, balanced rations and marketing. They are taught to fit, show and judge animals and many young cattle raisers have banked a sizeable profit from a well managed beef project using the funds for college, a down payment on a farm or both.

Gold filled medals, expense paid trips to the National 4-H Club Convention in Chicago and six $400.00 college scholarships will be the pay off for top-ranking club members in the beef projects. In Virginia, Miss Patricia Whites Wisnuciver, of Bedford County, is the state winner in the beef project and will attend the Congress in Chicago in November, and will compete for one of the college scholarships. However, the boys and girls in Princess Anne County in the Baby Beef project say that they are not far behind. Good luck to all of you.

POULTRY CULLING NOT AS FASHIONABLE AS IT ONCE WAS

Folks are not culling the poultry flock like they used to. Very little culling actually should be needed in a commercial flock today. This is due to improved breeding, better disease prevention and better management practices that have reduced the number of culls. A thorough culling does not justify the labor needed or the loss of a production which might be curbed because of disturbing the flock.

Sick birds or birds that have some mechanical injury, of course, should be removed any time they are seen. More attention, also, should be given to culling in older flocks. Whenever culling is necessary, it should be done at night, which will help in reducing disturbances in the flock.

BAG WORMS ARE CAUSING TROUBLE

Ornamentals are having quite a rough time of it from Bag Worms here in the area. However, we can give the Bag Worms a rough time by spraying immediately with eight pounds of lead arsenic per 100 gallons of water. Toxephene and D.D.T. also will do a good job of control, but I believe lead arsenate will do the best job. They will soon pupate and then hand picking and burning are the only solution to the problem.

VIRGINIA DARE NOT FIRST

The Virginia Dare Soil Conservation District made up of Norfolk and Princess Anne Counties was not the first in the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. conservation awards program. However, we were close behind.

The Virginia judges cited the Northern Virginia District for doing the best job of advancing the cause of land and water conservation in the state, during the past two years. The two winners of the individual grand awards for Virginia will be guests of the Program Sponsor at Wigwam Resort Hotel in Goodyear Farms in Littlefield Park in Arizona during the latter part of the year.

We are hoping and working towards a grand winner being selected from the Virginia Dare Soil Conservation District.

BE ALERT FOR EDEMA IN VIRGINIA SWINE

Edema, a disease which was first recognized in Virginia some three or four years ago doesn't pose much of a threat in the state, but it would be a good idea to be on the alert for it. The incidence of the disease is low in Virginia at the present time, but it could increase. It has become a serious threat in the Midwest the past few years. Pigs that are eight to twelve weeks old are more apt to be affected, but pigs of any age can fall victim to this disease.

Symptoms can appear suddenly and may include a staggering gait, swollen eye lids and paralysis. Often the affected pig stands on his knees, maintaining its balance on its hind legs.

Your veterinarian can help reduce death losses if treatment is started early. Swine raisers should keep in mind that radical changes in feeding, tends to increase the danger of Edema. Any changes in rations should be made very gradually.

DAYS OF BIRTH TO WEANING IMPORTANT FOR REPLACEMENT HEIFER

The time from birth to weaning may be a small part of a Heifer's growing period, but it is an important one.

Improving a dairy herd by using desirably proved sires and outstanding dams is impossible unless replacement Heifers are raised successfully. Here are some feeding and management recommendations for top growth of the replacement Heifers from birth to weaning.

Prevent chilling in the new born calf; help the calf in nursing if it is very weak; disinfect the exposed part of the calf's navel cord soon after birth. Identify calves soon after it is born.

Remove the calf from the dam within 24 hours after birth and put it in an individual pen. Keep the calf dry and free from cold drafts. Use nipple pails or teach calf to drink from an open bucket. Keep feeding utensils clean.

Provide calf with green, high quality hay, salt and water. Observe the calf daily to detect and correct abnormal conditions. Dehorn the calf before it is a month old. And check the calf's growth periodically, at least monthly.

one of 7 big bests Chevrolet gives you over any car in its field

Proof that Chevy delivers the most miles from a gallon comes from an indisputable source: this year's Mobilgas Economy Run. For a pair of Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide walked away with the first two places in their class—got top mileage, in fact, of any full-sized car. Over the Run's long, rugged course, over mountain and desert in the long, long haul from Los Angeles to Kansas City, the winning Chevrolet averaged a whopping 22.38 miles per gallon. That's the kind of economy-engineering that keeps you saving while you drive!

BEST STYLE—It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

BEST BRAKES—In competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by NASCAR*, Chevy outstepped both of the "other two." Naturally—Chevy brakes with bonded linings are far larger, built to lengthen brake life by up to 66%.

BEST TRADE-IN—Look at the record—the used car prices in any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book. You'll find that Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST ENGINE—Chevrolet engines have long won expert praise and, just recently, Chevrolet received the

ENACE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

BEST ROOM—Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.* make this abundantly clear. Chevy front seat hip room, for instance, is as much as 5.9 inches wider than in comparable cars.

BEST RIDE—MOTOR TREND magazine names Chevy "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." But this is one Chevy feature you really should discover for yourself, at your Chevrolet dealer's. Stop by soon!
